LATE COTTON EATEN TO BADLY HURT BY FROST

Commissioner Price Says Loss to Farmers Will Total Thousands. Cold to Continue.

Damage conservatively estimated at many thousands of dollars, was done to the "late" cotton crop by a severe frost Tuesday morning, according to information at the Georgia Agricultural Department.

"I have received no official figures," said Commissioner Price, "but I believe that cotton has been seriously injured throughout the State. The damage will be in spots and probably will amount to many thousands of dollars."

Jack Frost arrived early Tuesday for the first time this season. He came on the heels of snow which fell Monday morning and caught many farmers unprepared.

The official prospect is even colder weather Tuesday than that of Monday.

Temperature Tumbles. Tuesday's temperature, according to Venableman, is scheduled for a tumble to 26 degrees. In fact, the mercury got so close to this mark that the weather man will note the difference on the records. Wednesday there probably will be a break, and Thursday it should be much warmer, according to the weather experts.

At 7 a. m. Tuesday it was clear, chilly and cold, with a temperature of 42 degrees. Only the most gradual sort of rise was noted as the hours went by.

While cornucopia and furs were much in evidence all day Monday, they were more in evidence Tuesday morning.

"Snap" Sets Record. While the weather authorities do not consider the present weather a "cold wave" in the strict sense, they do not hesitate to declare that it is a "good" tumble.

According to the records, the present "snap" is a record breaker for October. The lowest temperature in local records was on October 23, 1910, when 20 degrees was registered as a minimum.

Just one year ago Monday the thermometer registered 55 degrees, or 21 degrees warmer than Monday's temperature.

Cold Wave Deals Out Death and Damage

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A violent snowstorm, the worst of the season of the year in the memory of the old residents, swept Chicago and the Middle West today. Trains running into Chicago were delayed. Traffic in the city was paralyzed.

One death was due to the storm in Chicago, when a switchman, blinded by the snow, stepped from between two cars in the path of an engine.

Several ships on Lake Michigan were missing today. Wireless failed to find them.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21.—The toll of the storm rising over Wisconsin today was five lives. Two were drowned in Lake Michigan when their ship was overturned in a gale. The three others perished when their launch capsized.

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Oct. 21.—Blowing the blizzard that swept Southern Ohio last night a light snow shower today, with freezing temperatures.

BETHLEHEM, Oct. 21.—Heavy snow and high winds were blowing from the north and east, with falling temperatures, according to reports from the Weather Bureau.

Monarchists in New Revolt in Portugal

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LISBON, Oct. 21.—Another anti-republican revolution has broken out in Portugal, according to a report received here today by way of the frontier.

Serious disorders are reported from several quarters where monarchist strength is marked. Government troops have been massed in Lisbon, Oporto and other important cities.

FLASHLIGHT AT THE POLICE STATION OF MYSTERIOUS WITNESS PRINCIPALS

J. C. Shirley, the merchant named by Fisher as Mary Phagan's slayer.

Judge Speer Passes Crisis in His Illness

MACON, Oct. 21.—A. H. Hayward, son-in-law of Judge Emory Speer, brought the information from Mount Airy, Ga., that Judge Speer has now passed the crisis of a desperate illness.

Banjo Now Silent; Polk Miller Is Dead

RICHMOND, VA., Oct. 21.—Polk Miller, a Richmond business man, known throughout the South for his plantation stories of war times and his performances on the banjo at many Confederate reunions, died suddenly at his home here to-night. He was 63 years old.

Sulzer Takes Moose Assembly Nomination

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—William Sulzer, impeached as Governor of the State, was nominated for the Assembly to-night by the Progressives of the Sixth Assembly District. Mr. Sulzer in 1889 began his public career as a member of this branch of the State Legislature.

Loved Own Cookery So Well, Grady Chef Stole Choice Steaks

On the heels of a record of much rectitude and excellent cooking, Toby Eason, chef at the Grady Hospital, has got into trouble.

The disappearance of certain choice steaks and other staples and delicacies from the larder of the hospital have given much annoyance to the steward of late, but such was Toby's reputation for probity that he was the last person suspected.

Dubois, Noted French Composer, Is Dead

PARIS, Oct. 21.—M. Theodore Dubois, former director of the Paris Conservatoire and one of the best known composers in Europe, died today as the result of injuries he received in an automobile accident.

Yellow Fever Germ In Blackmail Plot

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The use of the yellow fever germ as an agent of blackmail formed a new problem today for the Chicago police.

Detectives were making vain efforts to find the man who threatened to inoculate Mrs. Frederick M. Stone, wife of a wealthy manufacturer, and her children, if $25,000 was not left in a secluded spot in Grant Park. A letter, accompanied by a tiny can labeled "Pest", described the money. It was said that the germ would spread yellow fever germs to inoculate a hundred persons.

Mrs. Rockefeller's Recovery Doubtful

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Oct. 21.—The condition of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, who is ill here, was regarded as serious today. Her advanced age has made the outcome of her illness extremely doubtful.

DETECTIVES SEEK TO REVEAL PLOT AGAINST FURNITURE MERCHANT

Police, Tuesday, considered the exoneration of J. C. Shirley complete. Charles J. Graham, attorney for the man accused by I. W. Fisher of the murder of Mary Phagan, said that he was as yet undecided whether Fisher's accusations were the ravings of a diseased and dope-steeped mind or the first evidence of a deep-laid plot with Fisher as the tool.

Two prominent Atlanta men and one Birmingham man are threatened with arrest on charges of conspiracy. A searching investigation by Chief Lanford and Attorney Graham will decide whether this move will be taken. Graham said Tuesday that he would make a decision as soon as reports had been made to him on certain rumors that had come to his ears.

Shirley said that he either would put Fisher in the asylum or in the penitentiary. He will bring his books to the police Tuesday to show a complete alibi. Lanford has instituted an investigation of the charges of conspiracy and will make arrests at once if he finds them substantiated. Two of the men named in the alleged conspiracy have been identified with the Frank case. The other one is known to have been with Fisher in Birmingham.

It was pointed out by Chief Lanford Tuesday that were Fisher's story true in every particular, there is nothing in it to connect Shirley with the murder of Mary Phagan. The name that Fisher said Shirley mentioned as that of the girl he was to meet was Hattie. Shirley asserts that he never even knew Mary Phagan by sight.

Fisher Locked Up. Fisher was put under arrest at the police station on the charge of criminal libel, the complaint being sworn to by Russell Shirley, a brother of J. C. Shirley. Short shift was given him after he had repeated his weird story Monday night in the presence of the man he accused.

The warrant had already been made out and as soon as it became apparent that Fisher, said by some to be an irresponsible drunkard and dope fiend, was going to stick by his story, Chief of Detectives Lanford gave the paper to Detective John W. Starnes and Fisher was locked up.

Fisher underwent a searching examination that lasted more than three hours. His detailed story first was taken by G. C. Feary, secretary to Chief Lanford. Little effort was made at this time to cross-examine him, the purpose being to get his story together as he originally had told it so that every feature might later be investigated with a view of disproving or substantiating it.

Visits Places He Names. Chief Lanford and Detective Starnes and Collier then put Fisher through a severe questioning and he then was taken out in the police automobile to visit several of the places he said he had been with Shirley on the day of the crime. Standing in front of the police station, Fisher was told that the request of Chief Lanford, came to the police station. Shirley went into his chief's office. As soon as Fisher came back he was hustled without any warning right into the room.

Standing before him was the man he accused.

Fisher was taken back for an hour, but recovered himself at once. He was placed in a chair near the chief and the questioning was resumed. Chief Lanford, Charles J. Graham, attorney for Shirley; Russell Shirley and the accused man himself took turns in firing questions at the stolid figure in the chair. Aside from a nervous movement of his hands, and a frequent stroking of his face on which there was a faint, slow growth of beard, he showed no sign of being disturbed by the unusual position in which he found himself.

Because of the positive statements contained in the first announcement of Fisher's story and the terrible charge against Shirley that was implied in its words some possibility existed that Shirley might be held at the police station until the story had been investigated.

So many glaring improbabilities and conflicts, however, crept into the man's narrative that Chief Lanford declared that he couldn't think of holding Shirley on the strength of Fisher's story, which he branded as manifestly impossible.

Dresser Never Delivered. The trip to No. 12 Hollywood avenue developed one of the reasons for disbelief in Fisher's statement. Mrs. William Holloway lives here. Fisher said that he went in a wagon with Shirley to this house the morning of April 28 to deliver a dresser. When the officers and Fisher drove up to the house Monday night, Mrs. Holloway declared that Fisher and Shirley never had delivered anything there, and that she had not bought a dresser for years. This blow to his tale did not daunt Fisher in the least. He still stuck to his assertion that they went there that morning and delivered the furniture.

Another of his statements which gave tangible cause for disbelief was that he had seen no crowd on the streets April 28, which was Memorial Day, either while he was waiting at Marietta and Forsyth streets from about 1 until 3 o'clock in the afternoon or while he and Shirley, according to his story, were driving across Peachtree street and down Decatur street and then to the Union Station.

He said that he noticed no crowd on the streets at all other than would naturally be on any Saturday afternoon. It is claimed that this alone brands his story as ridiculous, as there were large crowds on the street.

Still another discrepancy which the police say is in his story is that he first said that he met C. W. Burke, agent for Attorney Luther Rosser, on Friday night in Birmingham. Before the detectives he declared that the first time he saw Burke was last Sunday night, when Burke met him on the street and brought him to Atlanta. Burke also is declared to have said that he met Fisher first on Friday night.

Fisher was questioned very closely by those who had talked to him in the past. He was asked whether he had met Fisher first on Friday night. Fisher was questioned very closely by those who had talked to him in the past. He was asked whether he had met Fisher first on Friday night.

Mrs. Pankhurst to Call on Wilson Only
If He Requests Her

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The votes for women legions in New York will give a tremendous public welcome to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British militant leader, at Madison Square Garden to-night. The gathering will take the place of meetings previously announced. In her address Mrs. Pankhurst will answer critics made against her here and abroad.

Mrs. Pankhurst received a number of suffragette leaders at Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's home to-day. When one of them asked if she would call on President Wilson when he visits Washington, Mrs. Pankhurst said: "I shall call to see the President only if the President expresses a desire to see me. Your President is a very busy man."

Pulling Bed Covers Constitutes Cruelty; Wife Gets Divorce

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Her husband's habit of pulling the bedcovers off of her on January nights constitutes cruelty, Mrs. Pearl B. Smith told Judge Harkin in the Circuit Court to-day. She was granted a divorce.

"He took the quilts away from me in January," she testified. "I kicked and he pulled the covers off the bed. Once he pulled me on his lap then he became angry and squeezed me."

"That was pretty affectionate treatment, wasn't it?" the court asked. "No, not the way he squeezed me, no, sir," she replied.

Women Moose Help Democrat to Win

PEORIA, ILL., Oct. 21.—Charles C. Craig, Democrat and millionaire attorney of Galesburg, Ill., was elected to the Supreme Court of Illinois by a plurality of 3,640, according to figures on yesterday's Fifth Judicial District election completed to-day.

Craig's election was made possible by women Progressives, who fought for his nomination. He refused to pledge himself for suffrage. The women held responsible for the result, vote which went to Arthur H. Shaw, of Streator, Progressive nominee.

Banjo Now Silent; Polk Miller Is Dead

RICHLAND, VA., Oct. 21.—Polk Miller, a Richmond business man, known throughout the South for his plantation stories of war times and his performances on the banjo at many Confederate reunions, died suddenly at his home here to-night. He was 59 years old.

For twenty years or more Mr. Miller traveled over the South, but seldom appeared out of that territory, because, as he explained, his dialect stories were not understood elsewhere.

Judge Speer Passes Crisis in His Illness

MACON, Oct. 21.—A. H. Hayward, son-in-law of Judge Emory Speer, brings the information from Mount Airy, Ga., that Judge Speer has now passed the crisis of a desperate illness.

Mr. Hayward, who was at Mount Airy ten days, says that the Judge is improving daily and expects to be able to attend the Congressional investigation of his record in Macon early in November.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 21.—Strong agitation has been going on by the college authorities against the "treating" habit.

LATE COTTON

Damage conservatively estimated at many thousands of dollars, was done to the "late" cotton crop by a severe frost Tuesday morning, according to information at the Georgia Agricultural Department.

"I have received no official figures," said Commissioner Price, "but I believe that cotton has been seriously injured throughout the State. The damage will be in some and probably will amount to many thousands of dollars."

Jack Frost arrived early Tuesday for the first time this season. He came on the heels of snow which fell Monday morning and caught many farmers unprepared.

The "official" prospect is even colder. Weather Tuesday than that of Monday.

Temperature Tumblers.
Tuesday's temperature, according to Director VonHermann, is scheduled for a tumble to 30 degrees. In fact, the mercury got so close to this figure in the wee small hours Tuesday that only the weather man will note the difference on the records. Wednesday there probably will be a break, and Thursday it should be much warmer, according to the weather experts.

At 7 a. m. Tuesday it was clear, sunny and cold, with a temperature of 33 degrees. Only the most gradual sort of rise was noted as the hours went by.

On the heels of a record of much rectitude and excellent cooking, Tobs Eason, chef at the Grady Hospital, has got into trouble.

The disappearance of certain choice steaks and other staples and delicacies from the larder of the hospital have given much annoyance to the steward of late, but such was Tobs' reputation for probity that he was the last person suspected.

Finally, however, he was watched. His pockets bulged suspiciously as he left the hospital last night. Pancy cuts of steak caused the bulges.

Tobs was arrested.

TO CHANGE AFFILIATION.
FOURTH, Oct. 21.—At a conference following the Sunday morning service, the First Baptist Church of Fourth voted to withdraw from the Methodist Association and unite with the Central Association.

To Guard Credits Under Money Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—An amendment to the pending currency bill for the completion of the machinery of the new banking and currency system before any part of it is set in operation, will be adopted by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, according to opinions expressed by a majority of the committee to-day.

The economic cause of the amendment lies in the alleged need of banks for an institution to refund part of the money for them simultaneously with their transfer of capital to the proposed Federal reserve banks. Otherwise, the transfer of these funds will result, it is declared, in a contraction of credits and disturbed business.

Yellow Fever Germ In Blackmail Plot

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The use of the yellow fever germ as an agent of the blackmail formed a new problem to-day for the Chicago police.

Detectives were making vain efforts to find the man who threatened to inoculate Mrs. Frederick M. Steele, wife of a wealthy manufacturer, and her children, if $25,000 was not left in a so-called spot in Grant Park. A letter, accompanied by a tiny cardboard box, demanded the money. In the cardboard box a chemist found enough yellow fever germs to inoculate a hundred persons.

Branch Parcel Post Office for W. Hunter

Postmaster Bolling Jones announced Tuesday that a branch parcel post office would be established at Nos. 44 and 46 West Hunter street.

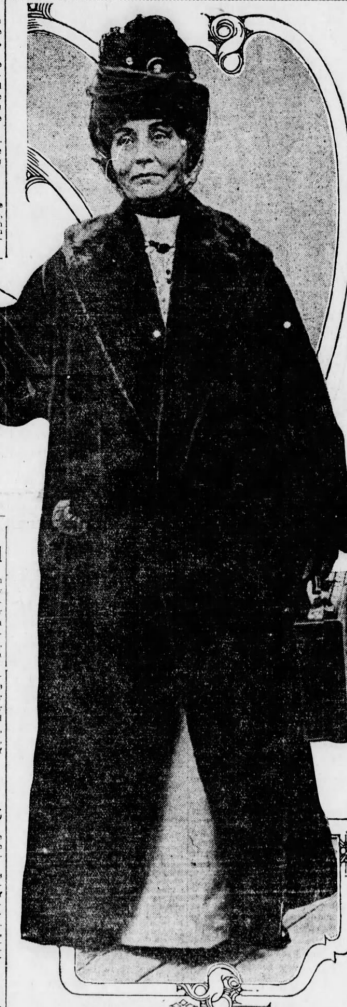

"We are now handling between 3,000 and 10,000 packages a day," said Mr. Jones. "Within a year we will be handling 25,000 packages a day. The growth of this business is remarkable, and it is mostly new business."

Mrs. Rockefeller's Recovery Doubtful

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Oct. 21.—The condition of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, who is ill here, was regarded as serious today. Her advanced age has made the outcome of her illness extremely doubtful.

The Rockefeller home declined to issue any bulletin on her condition, but it was admitted to-day that the family had delayed its annual fall journey to their winter home at Tarrytown.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the English militant suffragettes, snapped on the ship just before she landed at Ellis Island, where she was detained until she won her appeal.

DORSEY TO BE ASKED TO AID IN UNEARTHING PLOT AGAINST SHIRLEY

Solicitor Dorsey shortly before noon made public a mass of affidavits upholding Jurors Jochenning and Henslee who were accused of bias in charges filed by the defense in the fight for a new trial for Leo Frank.

The affidavits included statements from fellow jurors declaring that the two men had expressed no opinion on the merits of the case while the trial was in progress. They also included statements upholding the character of the men.

That the Fulton County Grand Jury will be asked to investigate the origin of the accusation of Ira W. Fisher was the statement made by C. J. Graham, attorney for J. C. Shirley, the furniture dealer named by the new Phagan "witness" Tuesday.

This action was decided upon following a lengthy conference between Shirley, Graham and Chief of Detectives Lanford. Its purpose will be to determine whether Fisher's story was the result of a conspiracy against Shirley or simply the result of a drink-crazed mind.

A rigid probe to the foundation of the story will be asked. Persons named by Fisher as his associates since his departure from Atlanta will be questioned, especially those with whom he had dealings just prior to the time he appeared before Chief of Police Bookser in Birmingham and made his startling statements.

If the investigation shows that others had a hand in the accusations against the furniture dealer, they will be prosecuted together with Fisher on a conspiracy charge. Many believe that this will prove the fact.

Conference With Dorsey
Attorney Graham stated that he would have a conference with Solicitor Dorsey later in the day and an early date for the Grand Jury probe would be fixed.

Two Atlanta men and one Birmingham man are threatened with arrest on charges of conspiracy. A searching investigation by Chief Lanford and Attorney Graham will decide whether this move will be taken. Graham said Tuesday that he would make a decision as soon as reports had been made to him on certain rumors that had come to his ears.

Shirley said that he either would put Fisher in the asylum or in the penitentiary. He will bring his books to the police Tuesday to show a complete alibi. Lanford has instituted an investigation of the charges of conspiracy and will make arrests at once if he finds them substantiated. OXFORD, PA., Oct. 21.—When the local tax collector refused to accept checks proffered to him, the taxpayers planned revenge and paid their obligations in pennies.

Twelve thousand pennies poured in on the first day.

Dubois, Noted French
Composer, Is Dead

SPECIAL Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
PARIS, Oct. 21.—M. Theodore Dubois, former director of the Paris Conservatoire and one of the best known composers in Europe, died here as the result of injuries he received in an automobile accident.

M. Dubois, who was 76 years old, wrote the sacred music to an oratorio, the libretto of which was written by the late Pope Leo in 1898, and it was sung at Christmas services that year in the Cathedral of Rheims.

Sulzer Takes Moose Assembly Nomination

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—William Sulzer, impeached as Governor of the State, was nominated for the Assembly tonight by the Progressives of the Sixth Assembly District, Mr. Sulzer in 1893 being his public campaign as a member of this branch of the State Legislature.

Mr. Sulzer has agreed to accept the nomination.

Speakers Announced For Hart County Fair

HARTWELL, Oct. 21.—The Hart County Fair Association holds its annual meeting November 1. There will be a Menagerie, Educational and Agricultural Days.

Among the speakers at the fair will be Hon. James D. Price, Governor of Georgia, Dr. A. M. Soule and Captain J. C. Young.

POLICE HUNT FISHER'S 'ACCOMPLICE'

TOM WATSON INDICTMENT PREPS OFF TECH TEAM AS ROW BIEWS

More than 200 former employees of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills gathered at the City Hall about 2 o'clock this afternoon for a mass meeting to air their grievances. They had prepared a petition to the Mayor, asking for a commission to follow the removal of the mill management, over a suspension of the mill, the employees refusing to follow the removal of the mill. There was some talk among those of the City Hall Trustees, however, that complaints of conditions at the factory would be looked upon by the city officials and that the new law passed by the City Council would be taken advantage of. Furthermore, the new law would be looked upon by the city officials and that the new law passed by the City Council would be taken advantage of. #### Star Athlete's Temporary Suspension Threatens to Develop Startling Countercharges.

It is being rumored by an eruption from the center of Georgia, Sam Houston has been shaken by an earthquake, and just now an explosion in the camp of Georgia and Alabama football teams is impending that will terminate in the greatest place of and/or scandal that has ever been heard.

Star Press, noted for three or four years as the greatest school athlete in the South, is the best known athlete who is being considered for a valuable football candidate. He is making rapid progress under the tuition of Coach Heisman, but he has been "knocked off temporarily" by the Tech faculty.

Charges have been made against Press that he is a professional. He is said to have accepted $1000 from the Georgia Military School, of Asheville, N. C., in return for which he has coached the school's athletic corps.

Tech Men Accuse Georgia. Each team claims that Georgia men were responsible for their losses. In turn Tech alumni declare that Georgia men were responsible for their losses. In turn Tech alumni declare that Georgia men were responsible for their losses.

Grand Jury Bill Defective and Unfair to Defendant, Asserts Judge Foster. AUGUSTA, Oct. 21.—Judge Foster in United States District Court this afternoon sustained the motion of counsel for Thomas E. Call, Nellie Bad Character. W. P. Neal, the defense's affiant, who stated he saw a spectator "talk to one of the jurors and grab him by the hand," is referred to in the affidavit of W. J. Clayton, of the Central Carriage Company, as of bad character and one whom Clayton would not believe under oath.

He said that there was nothing in his decision intended to prevent the case being brought over again and another indictment brought by a Grand Jury. However, should another indictment be brought, which appears to be extremely improbable, the entire article and not extracts therefrom would have to be used in the indictment.

MAN HIGHER UP IS MENTOR SUSPECTED PLOT AGAINST SHIRLEY

A search extending over two States was begun by the police Tuesday in an effort to locate Joe Hicks, companion of Leo M. Frank, who was accused of the murder of Mary Phagan against J. C. Shirley, of 809 Marietta street, Atlanta.

Chief of Detectives Lanford and Charles J. Graham, attorney for Shirley, believe that they will have disclosed the deeply laid plot against Shirley, if such a plot actually has existed, when they have forced Hicks to talk and when they have grilled Fisher in a sober condition.

There was yesterday that two prominent Atlantans might be arrested if any basis were found for belief in the plot theory. Later it was said that a searching investigation was being made of the possibility that a man still higher up was the moving spirit in a diabolical scheme to fasten the crime on an innocent man.

Graham was undecided Tuesday as to whether Fisher's sensational story was merely the vapors of a disordered and crazy intellect or the outcropping of a genuine conspiracy that had gone wrong through the inability of Fisher to tell a convincing story.

There also is the possibility that Hicks suggested the story to Fisher from day to day, and finally built up in Fisher's mind the structure of the ridiculous tale he has told in Birmingham and here in Atlanta, a story which was starting out as a simple and direct accusation, but which broke down the instant the man was forced to tell an alleged detail.

Thirty Affidavits Against New Frank Trial

SEEK TO KEEP POLICE OUT OF STRIKE

Workers Threaten Trouble for Cotton Mill for Violation of "Sweatshop" Law.

An appeal for help was made to Mayor James G. Woodward Tuesday afternoon by cotton mill employees on strike at the big Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills. The request for aid was voiced through a committee of four which presented grievances against the management of the establishment and urged that the police be not allowed to interfere with the situation.

According to one of the workers the trouble at the mill was brought to a climax by a recent ruling that wages would not be paid until 60 hours of labor had been performed, that is, the employee would not be paid more frequently than that. The men claim that this works considerable hardship, many having to wait two weeks for their pay.

Leaders of the strikers added that they would bring charges against the mill management for general violation of the recent ordinance passed by Council to eliminate "sweatshop" conditions. They asserted that they would ask thorough inquiry of the conditions under which women and children labored.

Estimates as to the number of men now on strike differed widely. According to the mill heads not more than 150 are out. The strikers' estimate placed the figure around 1,000, which is believed to be a great exaggeration. About 100 gathered at the City Hall.

Oscar Elzas said to The Georgian Wednesday afternoon that the trouble was not as serious as had been painted by the men on strike. He declared that many had returned since yesterday and that at the most, not more than 150 employees were out.

Mr. Elzas said a committee of four and waited on him in the morning with a renewal of the demand that an employee who had been discharged for an assault on an assistant superintendent be reinstated.

The cotton mill head declared emphatically that no other demands were made and asserted that the rule governing the payment of wages had been in effect for many years.

Sulzer Takes Moose Assembly Nomination

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—William Sulzer, impeached as Governor of the State, was nominated for the Assembly to-night by the Progressives of the Sixth Assembly District. Mr. Sulzer in 1889 began his public career as a member of this branch of the State Legislature.

Mr. Sulzer has agreed to accept the nomination. Another installment of Sulzer's sensational political expose was made public here to-day. In this chapter Mr. Sulzer is quoted as saying that Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany, even threatened her in an attempt to have her influence her husband politically.

LATEST NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—Word was received at Tulane University to-day from President Dudley, of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, that Stewart and Hopkins, backfield men, have been declared ineligible. Stewart is out because of the one-year rule and Hopkins because of teaching a class.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—An automobile in which the Kaiser's son, Prince Fritz, was riding to-day struck and ran over a boy, fatally injuring him.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—For smashing windows in the Colonial office, Mary Richardson, a militant suffragette, was to-day sentenced to four months' imprisonment.

RHEIMS, FRANCE, Oct. 21.—Members of the family of Theodore Dubois this afternoon denied the announcement of his death issued at Paris earlier in the day.

MONTEREY, MEXICO, Oct. 21.—Three hundred persons were arrested here to-day charged with plotting to turn the city over to the rebels. The penitentiary is filled with political prisoners as a result of Dictator Huerta's iron-handed methods.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The Court of Appeals to-day affirmed the sentence of William J. Cummings, growing out of the failed Carnegie Trust Company. Cummings was sentenced to eight years and eight months.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The certificate of appointment of Representative Henry D. Clayton as Senator from Alabama was withdrawn from the consideration of the Senate to-day. Mr. Clayton decided not to press the validity of his appointment by Governor O'Neal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The Mexican situation was the chief topic of discussion at the Cabinet meeting to-day. Secretary of State Bryan spent an hour with President Wilson before the meeting, going over the latest reports received from Envoy Lind and Charge O'Shaughnessy. No action was taken at the Cabinet meeting.

Pulling Bed Covers Constitutes Cruelty; Wife Gets Divorce

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Her husband's habit of pulling the bedclothes off of her on January nights constitutes cruelty, Mrs. Pearl B. Smith told Judge Baldwin in the Circuit Court to-day. She was granted a divorce.

"He took the quilts away from me in January," she testified. "He kicked me and pulled the covers off the bed. Once he pulled me on his lap when he became angry and squeezed me."

"That was pretty affectionate treatment, wasn't it?" the court asked. "No, not the way he squeezed me; no, sir," she replied.

Aged Woman Saved By Force From Fire

Mrs. J. Kobolowsky, an aged woman, was saved by force from being burned to death Tuesday when her home at No. 19 Moore street caught fire. Mrs. Kobolowsky, despite the smoke and flames, continued the work of saving her belongings from the house.

At length, when the roof was caving in, the woman again started in. She was snatched from the threshold just as the roof fell. The house was destroyed.

Judge Speer Passes Crisis in His Illness

MACON, Oct. 21.—A. H. Heyward, son-in-law of Judge Emory Speer, brings the information from Mount Airy, Ga., that Judge Speer has now passed the crisis of a desperate illness.

Mr. Heyward, who was at Mount Airy ten days, says that the judge is improving daily and expects to be able to attend the Congressional investigation of his record in Macon early in November.

TWO JURORS DEFENDED OF BIAS

Probity of Henslee and Johnning Upheld—Influence of Cheering on Jury Denied.

Some 30 affidavits to support the State's contention that Leo M. Frank had a fair trial were made public Tuesday by Solicitor Dorsey. They will be used Wednesday in the fight against the defense's motion for a new trial before Judge L. S. Roan.

Some of the affidavits defend the probity and character of A. H. Henslee and M. Johnning, jurors who were accused of bias; some attack the trustworthiness of affidants for the defense, and others assert that no influence could have been exerted on the jury by the "cheering" and "demonstrations" on which the defense is basing much of its theme of appeal.

Samuel Aaron, whose affidavit was quoted as attacking the sincerity of Juror Henslee, was himself attacked by T. M. Webb, whose impeachment was in the usual form, that he would not believe Aaron on his oath, having known him many years.

W. P. Nell, the defense's affiant, who stated he saw a spectator "talk to one of the jurors and grab him by the hand," is referred to in the affidavit of W. J. Clayton, of the Central Carriage Company, as of bad character and one whom Clayton would not believe under oath.

Pleimle Miner, Deputy Sheriff, also refers to the affidavit of Nell. He states, under oath, that one day in the courtroom he thought he saw a spectator say something to a juror, without rising, or touching him, or making any other gesture. He (Miner) at once went to the spectator, in order to take him before the judge, but the man denied having addressed any juror, and another man, sitting next him, also assured Miner that his companion had not spoken to any juror, so the deputy let the incident close.

T. S. Hawes, of Bainbridge, Ga., impeached R. G. Gremler, stating that he had known the defense's affiant twenty years and that he would not believe him under oath.

In the interval of preparing the affidavits Mr. Dorsey stated that he fancied those affidants who had sworn to hearing Henslee say in Barnesville "some time in June" that he had been drawn on the jury would be puzzled on hearing that Henslee, as a matter of fact, did not know himself that he was drawn on the jury until Friday, June 23, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon; that he remained in Atlanta Saturday and Sunday, and did not start for home until Monday.

The Solicitor evidently had been calculating on the various dates on which Henslee might have been charged with saying he was "on the Frank jury," but what deductions he had made would have to appear later.

For the rest of the prosecution's affidavits, Henslee praised Johnning as a juror without bias or prejudice; Johnning praised Henslee in similar terms, and J. T. Ozburn, F. E. Winburn, W. F. Medcalf, W. M. Jeffries, D. Townsend and A. L. Wisley, fellow jurors, commended both Henslee and Johnning as high-minded examples of justice and moderation.

Henslee Doubtful of Guilt.

It was the invariable testimony of his fellow jurors that Henslee was the only juror to cast a "doubtful" ballot, indicating that he was the most reluctant to make up his mind on what all the rest of the jurors seemed to have agreed on.

There was much testimony in regard to the cheering and "demonstrations," all tending to show that the

ROW BREWS OVER PREAS AT TECH

Startling Countercharges.

Italy has been rocked by an eruption from the crater of Vesuvius, San Francisco has been shaken by an earthquake, and just now an explosion in the camps of Georgia and Tech football teams is impending that is likely to terminate in the grandest little piece of gridiron scandal that the South has ever heard.

Jim Preas, noted for three or four years as the greatest schoolboy athlete in the South, is the keystone around which scandal is being constructed. Young Preas entered Tech this fall, and was looked upon as a most valuable backfield candidate.

He was making rapid progress under the tuition of Coach Heisman, but he has been "knocked off temporarily" by the Tech faculty.

Charges have been made against Preas that he is a professional. He is said to have accepted tuition at Bingham Military School, of Asheville, N. C., in return for which he gave the school his athletic qualifications.

Tech Men Accuse Georgia.

And Tech men claim that Georgia men were responsible for these charges. In turn Tech alumni declare they will unlearn professionalism within the ranks of the Georgia team, claiming they very easily can prove that there are players on the Athens eleven who have taken money for athletics before they went to Georgia or during their vacations.

A number of prominent Tech men claim they can easily produce "the goods" that Georgia's best lineman played professional baseball in or around Cordele, and that this charge will be their first volley if Georgia doesn't "keep its hands off."

The Tech admirers claim the charge brought against Preas was instigated by an ex-Georgia man who is now affiliated with the Bingham school as an assistant coach. They declare this coach tried to get Preas to go to Georgia, but that the young athlete preferred Tech. Hence, "sorehead," quotes the Techite.

Preas attended the Bingham school for three or four years, where he established a wonderful record in all branches of sport for a schoolboy. Columns were penned about him, and every college in the South was anxious to secure him. Of that there is absolutely no doubt.

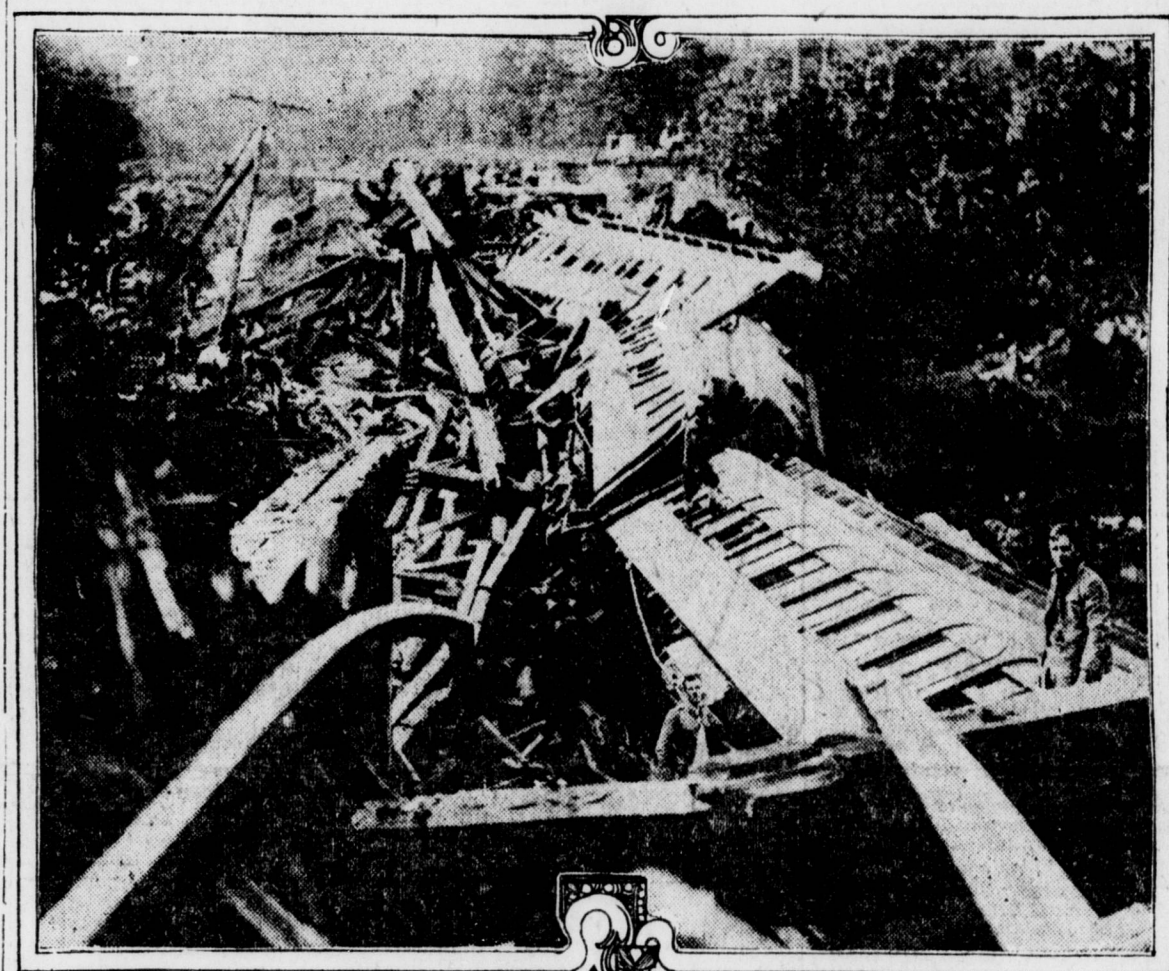

Chose Tech Out of Seven.

Preas admitted that representatives from seven different schools visited him at his home in Johnson City, Tenn., trying to induce him to go to their respective college or university. He claims that finally it came down to Tech and Virginia. His father, a noted physician and surgeon, wanted Jim to go to Virginia to study medicine, but the young man desired to take an engineering course, and finally decided to enter Tech.

Immediately, according to Tech men, Georgia began to look for "something on" Preas. It is the claim of the Techites that the ex-Georgia now coaching at the Bingham school induced President Bingham to make an affidavit that Preas took an "athletic course."

Report on Atlanta Sanitary Conditions Raps Health Board

An attack on the Atlanta Board of Health, with recommendations that it be abolished and reorganized, is said to be contained in the report of the experts of the Russell Sage Foundation, who, under the direction of Shelby M. Harrison, made a survey of living conditions in Atlanta last summer.

The report of Mr. Harrison and his colleagues was received by President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Chamber of Commerce, Monday afternoon, but because of its reported sensational charges Mr. Moore has refused to allow the public to know what it contains.

It is understood that the report attacks the board on the ground that it is poorly organized and possessed of inadequate facilities.

Copies of the report will be submitted to Mayor Woodward, V. C. Bacteriologist Claude Smith and City Health Officer J. P. Kennedy, for their peruse in strict confidence.

Court Ends Trial Of Editor Watson

AUGUSTA, Oct. 21.—Judge Foster here this afternoon sustained the motion of counsel for Thomas E. Watson, the Thomson editor, lawyer and politician, to quash the indictment against him, charging the sending of obscene matter through the United States mails. This motion, presented Monday by S. Gayt McLendon, chief of counsel for Mr. Watson, charged that to try him on this indictment would be to deny him his constitutional rights as a citizen, and the clause granting freedom to the press.

JOE HICKS HUNTED IN TWO STATES

He Is the Man Who Went With Fisher to Chief of Police.

A search extending over two States was begun by the police Tuesday in an effort to locate Joe Hicks, companion of Ira W. Fisher. Hicks is the man who accompanied Fisher to the office of Chief of Police Bodeker in Birmingham, when Fisher made his weird but quickly discredited accusation of the murder of Mary Phagan against J. C. Shirley, of No. 809 Marietta street, Atlanta.

Chief of Detectives Lanford and Charles J. Graham, attorney for Shirley, believe that they will have disclosed the deeply laid plot against Shirley, if such a plot actually has existed, when they have forced Hicks to talk and when they have grilled Fisher in a sober condition. Threats were made yesterday that two prominent Atlantans might be arrested if any basis were found for belief in the plot theory. Later it was said that a searching investigation was being made of the possibility that a man still higher up was the moving spirit in a diabolical scheme to fasten the crime on an innocent man.

Graham was undecided Tuesday as to whether Fisher's sensational story was merely the vapors of a disordered and crazy intellect or the outcropping of a genuine conspiracy that had gone wrong through the inability of Fisher to tell a convincing story. "I think we will know all when we find this man Hicks, who Fisher says was his constant companion in Parkville, and later in Birmingham," said Graham. "Hicks played a mysterious part in the affair. Fisher himself admitted that Hicks did most of the talking when they went to the office of Chief Bodeker. Hicks appears to have told most of the story and Fisher merely corroborated it."

"There also is the possibility that Hicks suggested the story to Fisher from day to day, and finally built up in Fisher's mind the structure of the ridiculous tale he has told in Birmingham and here in Atlanta, a story which was startling enough as a simple and direct accusation, but which broke down the instant the man was forced to give any alleged details."

Blackmail Is Suggested.

"We are working on several possibilities. One is that there was a conspiracy against Shirley. If there was such a plot it may have been engineered alone by Fisher. Hicks may have been a party to it. In this case it was simple blackmail."

"There also is the possibility that Fisher or Fisher and Hicks were merely tools in a conspiracy and that the real conspirators are men higher up. If this is the case, Atlanta will have a sensation the like of which it has not experienced in years. On the other hand, the whole story may be simply the ravings of a drunken and besotted mind. Fisher's own relatives say that he was an extraordinary liar when in his cups."

Ordinary conditions were reversed Tuesday. Shirley, the accused, was

SEEK TO KEEP POLICE OUT OF STAKE

Workers Threaten Trouble for Cotton Mill for Violation of "Sweatshop" Law.

An appeal from a committee of the striking employees of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills for relief from alleged intimidation by the city police to Mayor James G. Woodward Tuesday afternoon resulted in a promise from the Mayor that he would take the matter up at the special meeting of the Police Commission Tuesday night.

"Unless you are disturbing the peace or resorting to violence the police have no right to interfere with you," said Mayor Woodward. "I don't think there will be any further cause for complaint against the police."

W. W. Flynn, a weaver, was the spokesman for the delegation. C. C. Cotton and Allen Floyd were with him. Down on Forsyth street a large number of the strikers awaited to hear the attitude of Mayor Woodward.

Flynn told the Mayor that the strike was based on general grievances brought to an acute stage Saturday by the discharge of an employee.

"For one thing, the water in the mill has been too warm to drink since October 1, when the mill uniting us ice water," he said. "The pipes run all around through the mill and the water becomes heated. A complaint was made to the authorities for better water. There was no reply yet."

"For quite a while the mill has been in a state of holding back five days' pay. A notice was posted the other day stating that 60 hours pay would be held back hereafter. They require the employees to give five days' notice when they are going to quit, else they won't get this back pay."

In the weaving department the normal wage, by the piece, amounts to about $1.75. When an employee makes a day 12.00 he is deducted from the normal wage for the week. But the person who takes the place of the regular employee gets only $1.25 a day. That gives the mill a net profit of $1.00 on every day that a regular weaver is ill.

"From this source and the baggage system the mill reaps thousands of dollars of profit every year."

Public Meeting Held. When the men were put out of the mill Monday they were doing nothing more than insisting that they be given their back pay. Every one of them thought they had a legal right to this money. Then the city police came in and it looked like intimidation.

Tuesday morning Chief Beavers and a squad of policemen rode through the village.

A public meeting was held to discuss the matter Monday afternoon. T. J. Wood led a prayer for the cause. He was arrested Tuesday and taken to the police station.

A committee went by there Tuesday afternoon and asked the cause of the arrest. The police stated that they had been requested to arrest him, but that they had no right to arrest him. He was released.

Estimates as to the number of men on strike differed widely. According to the mill heads not more than 150 are on strike. The strikers estimate placed the figure around 1,000, which is believed to be a great exaggeration. About 100 gathered at the City Hall.

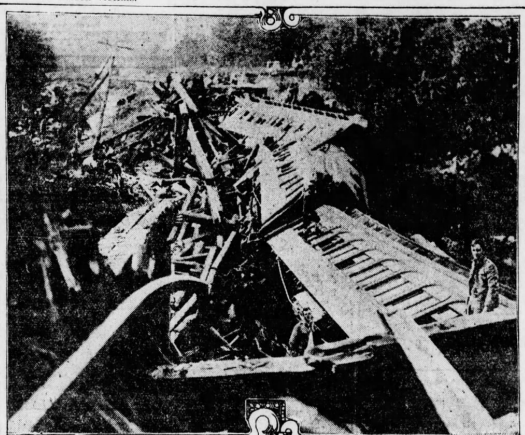

Mayor Elias said to The Georgian Tuesday afternoon that the trouble was not as serious as had been painted by the men on strike. He declared that many had returned since yesterday and that the most of more than 150 employees were out.

Mr. Elias said a committee of four men was on its way to the mill to see if the men could be persuaded to return with a renewal of the demand that the employees who had been discharged be reinstated.

Intimidation by the police against the cotton mill had declared yesterday that the police were not to be trifled with. He said and asserted that the police were not to be trifled with. He said and asserted that the police were not to be trifled with.

respected Marietta street merchant, in the Phagan case, was turned over to the police authorities late Monday afternoon. Attorney Rosser notified Chief of Detectives Lanford that he was ready to file the "witness" up. Detective Eugene Coker was dispatched to the attorney's office immediately. Fisher was taken to the police station and will be subjected to a rigid cross-examination Monday night.

Fisher reiterated before a crowd of newspaper men and detectives his startling story.

Despite Shirley's denial of every accusation made by Fisher, the man persisted in his accusations. He went into detail, going even so far as naming the amounts of money which he said Shirley had sent him at various times and giving the towns which he visited. However, he had no documents to support him and none who heard the story believed him.

That he will prosecute Ira W. Fisher, who names him as the principal in his sensational story of the Phagan murder, to the fullest extent the law allows, was the declaration made to a Georgian reporter late Monday afternoon by J. C. Shirley, the well-known and respected Marietta street merchant. He has retained C. J. Graham, a lawyer who has already figured in the Frank case, to represent him.

"The whole story is a joke," said Mr. Shirley. "But I will investigate the law and determine how I may prosecute this man for this abominable fairy tale."

J. C. Shirley said he did not even know where the National Pencil Factory was until he read of the Phagan case in the newspapers. He declared that he knew none of the girls employed there, except that he had heard that two girls who lived across the street were employed at the factory.

Shirley's office, at the street to his story, but some little credence was attached to it by anybody.

Fisher, according to report, declared that Shirley had met him on the street on the afternoon of the murder and had declared that he had met Mary Phagan and "played hell."

When informed of this statement, the furniture man laughed.

"Why the man is crazy," he said.

Identification of the accused man was made public Monday afternoon. It came from Birmingham, where Fisher first made his sensational statements. The man is well known in business circles of Atlanta. He declared that he was not aware that he was the one responsible for the slaying.

Mr. Shirley could not ascribe any reason for Fisher having brought the charge of murder against him unless he was demented.

"Why, I don't recall having talked with Fisher since he left the store," he declared. "I don't recall the 'only time I saw much of him' was when he loomed around the store. I don't recall having ever discussed the Phagan case with him."

Mr. Shirley denied having ever delivered furniture at the home of J. W. Coleman, stepfather of Mary Phagan, who, Fisher charged by his wife with being a raving drunkard, wanted by police officials for the murder of his daughter.

Mr. Fisher said he would be denounced as a result of accusations of murder made against himself, I. W. Fisher, the accuser of a prominent Atlanta man in the Phagan case, was confronted Monday by a general invitation to ridicule his story and the threatened collapse of a sensation.

Kept a prisoner in the office of Luther Z. Rosser, while the police waited to arrest him, Fisher continued to be inaccessible to questions from reporters. He was the only one of his record-bared facts that threw a dark cloud on his reliability.

Detectives continued their vigil on the ground floor of the Grant Building ready to arrest Fisher.

Sam, said Rosser, and he strode away in the direction of his own door. A police officer stated positively

FISHER STICKS TO STORY OF FIERCE GRABING OF LAWYER AND POLICE

Fisher's story, which he branded as "unbelievably impossible."

The trip to No. 122 Belmont avenue developed one of the reasons for Mr. William Holloway's statement. Mr. William Holloway lives here. Fisher said he went in a wagon with Shirley to this house the morning of April 28 to deliver a dress. When the officers and Fisher drove up to the house Monday night, Mr. Holloway declared that Fisher and Shirley never had delivered anything there, and that she had not bought a dress for years. This blow to his tale did not shake Fisher in the least. He still stuck to his assertion that they were there that morning and delivered the furniture.

Another of his statements, which gave tangible cause for disbelief was that he had seen no crowd on the street April 28, which was Memorial Day, either while he was waiting at Marietta and Forsyth streets from about 2 o'clock in the afternoon or while he and Shirley, according to his story, were driving across Peachtree street and down Decatur street and then to the Union Station. He said that he noticed no crowd on the street at all other than would naturally be on any Saturday afternoon. The progress of his wagon never was stopped at any time he was driving from one place to another. It is claimed that this alone brands his story as ridiculous, as there were large crowds on the street.

Still another discrepancy which the police say is in his story is that the first call he met "C. W. Burke, agent for Attorney Luther Ross, on Friday night in Birmingham. Before the detectives he declared that the first time he saw Burke was last Saturday night when Burke met him on the street and brought him to Atlanta. Burke also is declared to have said that he met Fisher first on Friday night.

Fisher was questioned very closely about who had taken him to Luther Ross's office. He said that Ross and Robert Arnold had not talked to him at all, but that Burke had done most of the examination. "They told me up there that I would have a hard time down here if the detectives got hold of me," he naively told Langford.

Fisher gave all of his replies in a calm, almost disinterested voice when he charged Shirley with riding to the pencil factory to meet Mary Phagan. He jerked his thumb carelessly toward Shirley who sat at the other side of a table.

"You did it, you new you did it," he said to Shirley.

"You lie, you snark, you know I don't," retorted Shirley, and he started from his chair in a menacing manner. Detectives grabbed Shirley and averted a fight.

This dramatic scene was caused when Shirley was brought to headquarters to face his accuser. Quill was retained and asked Fisher to tell his story in the furniture store's driveway.

The Saturday of the murder Shirley and I drove down to Broad and Marietta streets in his wagon. We had delivered a bureau and a chest of drawers to a house on Belmont avenue. We stopped near the corner and Shirley said he wanted me to hold the bureau while he went to the pencil factory, where he had a date, he said, with Hattie. He put me in the car with Phagan. Phagan passed and Shirley was on his feet in an instant.

Called "Liar and Bum."

"You're a meanly liar and I'll prove it," you drunken bum," shouted Shirley, his eyes lighting up with a dangerous fire. "Why don't you tell the truth and quit lying?" Shirley had mad with rage, was almost dragged into his car by "Charley" Graham, his attorney.

Fisher was told to continue.

"I waited about an hour and a half for Shirley," started the man again, his eyes roving about the room, as though in search for a place he could look where he eyes would catch his gaze. "He got back between 2:30 and 3 o'clock."

"I've played him in general," he said to me. Then he said I had better get out of town.

Fisher again paused, and looking Shirley straight in the eyes for the first time, said:

"That's straight, Mr. Shirley, and you'll tell the truth you'll admit it."

One more Shirley arose in a threatening attitude, but took his seat again.

"I didn't want to get out of town and told Shirley so, but he threatened me and said I would have to get out. We drove to the Union Depot and he purchased a ticket for Elkins. He gave me $25. He went in the car with me and left me. If I hadn't have been afraid of him I wouldn't have gone away. I stayed in Elkins two weeks, then came back to Atlanta. I stayed here two weeks and then went to Copeland, Tenn. because

Shirley Declares Books Will Furnish Him Alibi

"I can account for every minute of my time on the day of the murder of Mary Phagan," said J. C. Shirley, better known to his friends as "Charley." Shirley was in his furniture store at No. 809 Marietta street and a crowd of his friends had gathered around him.

"I can not say offhand just what I did on that day, but my books will show my whereabouts."

"I have not taken the time to look up my books, but I attach such little importance to the statement and accusations of that drunken bum Fisher. I first knew Fisher in 1911, when he moved next door to my shop here. He came over here and I sold him on time a large quantity of furniture. He fooled around about the bill, did little work and much drinking, and finally in 1912 I would over and let him have to bring the furniture back to my place."

"His wife came to me and said that if I would change the account to her, she would pay the bill. She said that I had sold it and left the furniture in her husband's name he would steal it and sell it to buy whiskey."

Shirley's friends needed their approval.

Shirley's Friends Threaten Violence.

Threats of violence against I. W. Fisher were made in the neighborhood where Fisher formerly lived and where "Charley" Shirley is liked by everyone. Should Fisher fall into the hands of these residents, there is liable to be a manhandling party in the 7th and 10th blocks of Marietta street.

That Fisher has a reputation for being a drunkard and tale bearer is shown in the statements made to The Georgian Monday night by warty residents.

W. H. Houston, who owns a dry goods store at No. 807 Marietta street, said:

"I wouldn't believe I. Fisher if he swore to anything while on a stack of Bibles. He is the lowest, meanest man that ever lived. One day last summer he tried to sell me some clothes which he had in a sack. I asked him where he got them and he said he stole them from his wife so he could sell them and go up on North street for some liquor."

"I know of another time when Fisher stole his wife's shoes so that he could buy drink with the money he got by selling them."

"Fisher is the man who the papers wrote up last spring in connection with the 'mouse-cold' mule, when he claimed two men asked him to ride in their wagon. Fisher said the men robbed him of his gas. Later he said that he just claimed he was robbed so he wouldn't have to give his money to his wife."

If F. Shirley, brother of "Charley" Shirley, and partner in the business, speaking of Fisher, said:

"He was the sorriest man I ever knew in my life. I wouldn't trust or believe him. He would do anything for a dollar. Fisher is the man who turned up Griff Freeman for selling liquor, and then left town before the trial. This was about a year ago."

D. R. Dunbar, 809 Marietta, said:

"I wouldn't believe that drunken tramp on oath. He has done' everybody in this neighborhood, but you can believe that he won't show his face around here again as long as he lives."

Dr. W. D. Vincent, 29 Proctor avenue, and Samuel Weaver, 29 Hayden avenue, expressed the same opinion. Half a dozen others backed up the statements of their friends, but didn't want their names in the papers.

The telephone in Shirley's store rang all afternoon and on until late evening. Friends wanted to express themselves on their opinion of Fisher and to ask Shirley if he needed any help.

FISHER STOCKS STOPPING ORDER FOR ARREST

Walking the streets a free man. Fisher, the assassin, was occupying a cell in the police station. A charge of criminal libel has been preferred against him, but there is some question as to whether this charge can be made to stand in view of the fact that so far as is known Fisher made no written charges against Shirley. Lawyers in general have expressed themselves as believing that no charge of criminal libel can be preferred against him because all of his charges were verbal.

Fisher will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Puckett, probably Wednesday.

Grand Jury Called On. The Fulton County Grand Jury will be asked to investigate the origin of the accusations, the statement made by Graham.

This action was decided upon following a lengthy conference between Shirley, Graham and Chief of Detectives Lanford. Its purpose will be to determine whether Fisher was the result of a conspiracy against Shirley or simply the result of a drink-mad mind.

A right probe to the foundation of the story will be asked. Persons named by Fisher as his associates since his departure from Atlanta will be questioned, especially those with whom he had dealings just prior to the time he appeared before Chief of Police Booker in Birmingham and made his starting statements.

If the investigation shows that others had a hand in the accusations against the furniture dealer, they will be prosecuted together with Fisher on a conspiracy charge. Many believe that this will prove the fact.

Attorney Graham stated that he would have a conference with Solicitor Torrey later in the day and an early date for the Grand Jury would be fixed.

Shirley said that he either would put Fisher in the asylum or in the penitentiary. He will bring his books to the police Tuesday to show a complete alibi. Lanford has been conducting an investigation of the charges of conspiracy and will make arrests at once if he finds them substantiated. Two of the men named in the alleged conspiracy have been identified with the Frank case. The other one is known to have been with Fisher in Birmingham.

It was pointed out by Chief Lanford Tuesday that were Fisher's story true in every particular, there is nothing in it to connect Shirley with the murder of Mary Phagan. The name Fisher said Shirley mentioned as that of the girl he was to meet was Hattie. Shirley asserted that he never even knew Mary Phagan by sight.

Fisher Not Under Arrest. Fisher was not under arrest at the police station on the charge of criminal libel, the commission of which is charged by Russell Shirley, a brother of C. Shirley. Shirley said that he told him after he had repeated his weird story Monday night. The presence of the man he accuses.

The warrant had been made out, and as soon as it became apparent that Fisher, said by Fisher, was an irresponsible drunkard and dope fiend, was going to stick to his story, Chief of Detectives Lanford gave the paper to Detective John H. Starnes and Fisher was locked up.

Fisher underwent a searching examination that lasted about three hours. He detailed story first was taken by C. F. Fisher, secretary. He was taken to the cross-examination, the purpose being to get his story together as he originally had told it so that every feature might later be investigated with a view of disproving or substantiating it.

Chief Lanford and Detectives Starnes and Fisher then put Fisher through a severe questioning and the places were taken out in the police automobile to visit several of the witnesses he said he had been with on the day of the crime. While he was gone Shirley, at the request of Chief Lanford, called on the police station. Shirley went into the chief's office. As soon as Fisher came back he was hustled without any warning right into the room. Standing before him was the man he accused.

Fisher was taken back for an instant, but recovered himself at once. He was placed in a chair near the chief and the questioning was resumed. Chief Lanford, Charles Graham, attorney for Shirley, Russell Shirley and the accused man himself took turns in firing questions at the stout figure in the chair. From a nervous expression of his hands, and a frequent striking of his face on which there was a four-day growth of beard, it was plain to see that he was disturbed by the unusual position in which he found himself.

Shirley Isn't Held. Because of the positive statements contained in the first announcement of Fisher's story, the writer, who was in the room, noted the fact that Shirley might be held at the police station until the story had been investigated.

So many glaring improbabilities and deficiencies, however, crept into the man's narrative that Chief of Detectives Lanford, who he branded as "a magnificent impostor," decided upon the trip to No. 132 Bellwood avenue, a few miles out of the city, to the hotel in Fisher's statement. Mr. William Holloway lives in the room. When he was in a wagon with Shirley to this house the man's story was to deliver a dinner. When the officers and Fisher drove down the Atlanta night, Mr. Holloway declared that Fisher and Shirley never had delivered anything there, and that she had not bought a dinner for him. This alone in his tale did not count Fisher in the least. He still clung to his assertions against Shirley that morning and delivered the furniture.

Admission of his statements which gave tangible cause for disbelief was that he had seen no crowd on the streets April 26, which was Memorial Day, either while he was waiting at Marjorie and Forest streets from about 1 until 2 o'clock in the afternoon or while he and Shirley, according to his story, were driving across Peachtree street and down Decatur street and then to the Third Station.

He said that he noticed no crowd on the streets at all other than would naturally be on any Saturday afternoon. The crowd of people, he again never was stopped at any time he was driving from one place to another. It is claimed that this alone brands his story as ridiculous as there were large crowds on the street.

Still another discrepancy when the police say as in his story is that he said that he met C. W. Burke, agent for Attorney Luther Rosser, on Friday night at Birmingham. Before the detective he declared that the first time he saw Burke was last Saturday night when Burke met him on the street and urged him to Atlanta. Burke said he did not recall that he met Fisher first on Friday night.

Burke Did Talking. Fisher was questioned very closely about who had talked to him in Luther Rosser's office. He said that he had talked to Burke in Rosser's office at all times but that Burke had not talked to him on Friday night. He told him up there that I would not believe his story. He said that he did not believe his story. He said that he did not believe his story.

Shirley's Books Give Alibi; Accounts Hit Fisher's Story

J. C. Shirley declared to Chief of Detectives Lanford at the police station Tuesday morning when he called there with his lawyer, Charles J. Graham, that he could easily account for his movements on the day Mary Phagan was murdered and that this could establish a complete alibi.

Shirley's statement to the chief was that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder.

He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder.

He moved farther down the street, didn't see Shirley for some time, then one day he came and borrowed a dollar from me. Then it was a long time before he came around. Previous to his borrowing the dollar he used to hang around the store.

The crowd around the popular furniture dealer knew all about Fisher and many admitted that he had "stung" them for small amounts.

Along in August of this year, a long time after Mary Phagan was murdered, I saw Fisher and he paid the dollar. He was wearing good clothes and had money and he apologized and told me that he wanted to pay all his debts to re-establish his good standing.

Shirley said he was prepared to go more fully into detail in a sworn statement as to his movements should he become necessary. However, for that he felt Fisher is the greatest scoundrel in Atlanta, and that he is dangerous to the public, remarked the merchant with a smile.

It is just a question of whether he might be in the penitentiary or the asylum. Explaining his acquaintance with Fisher, he said that he first knew Fisher in 1911, when he moved next door to my shop here. He came over here and I sold him little work, a large quantity of furniture, and much drinking.

He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder. He said that he was in the city of Atlanta on the day of the murder.

RECORD-BREAKING COLD SNAP ENDS AS MERCURY RISES; FROST HURTS CROPS

Temperatures Today.
The above official forecast from the Weather Bureau Tuesday brought a change of fortune from the wintry weather which has prevailed in Atlanta since Sunday.

Weather conditions all over Georgia are reported to be on a general trend toward higher temperatures and sunshine. Further damage to late crops is not feared to a great extent.

Damage conservatively estimated at many thousands of dollars, was done to the "late" cotton crop by a severe frost Tuesday morning, according to information at the Georgia Agricultural Department.

Frost Tuesday.
"I have received no official figures," said Commissioner Price, "but I believe that cotton has been seriously injured throughout the State. The damage will be in spots and probably will amount to many thousands of dollars."

Jack Frost arrived early Tuesday for the first time this season. He came on the heels of snow which fell Monday morning and caught many farmers unprepared.

At 2 a. m. Tuesday it was clear, snappy and cold, with a temperature of 12 degrees. Only the most gradual out of the was noted as the hours went by.

"Snap" Breaks Record.
While forecasts and forecasts were much in evidence all day Monday, they were more in evidence Tuesday morning.

According to the records, the presented "snap" is a record breaker for October. The lowest temperature in local records was on October 23, 1910, when 30 degrees was registered as a minimum.

Just one year ago Monday the thermometer registered 38 degrees, or 21 degrees warmer than Monday's temperature.

The earliest snowfall ever recorded in Atlanta was on October 23, 1910.

Cold Wave Deals Out Death and Damage

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A violent weather storm, the worst at this season of the year in the memory of the oldest residents, swept Chicago and the Middle West today. Trains running into Chicago were delayed. Traffic in the city was paralyzed.

One death was due to the storm in Chicago, when a switchman, blinded by snow, stepped from the track in the path of an oncoming train.

Several ships on Lake Michigan were blown to-day. Windless failed to find them.

$50,000 Loss by Storm.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Rear Admiral Boies, commanding the Norfolk navy yard, notified Secretary of the Navy today that the storm at the government's loss in the storm that struck the Virginia Capes last night probably will total $50,000.

This represents an amount which the navy department is unable to cover.

Parents Declining to Tell Her.

"I don't know her name. I have been told she is dead—but I want to know who I am, and those people won't tell me."

It was an odd admission, in an odd manner, that a letter, in fact, came to Mayor Woodward and one to the Chief Executive.

Mrs. W. A. Mills, 19 years old, wrote the letters. She lives, she says, with Mr. and Mrs. Randall Hutchins, No.
425 Kirby street, Palatka, Fla. The Hutchinses raised her. Until recently, she believed they were her parents.

But Mrs. Mills knows more than that, she insists. She wrote to a Mr.
Pank in Corvallis, Ore., and she says
Mr. Pank wrote back and told her that while she was still an infant her mother had died and that Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins had brought her up.

That much—but no more.
Seek Hutchins' Brothers Here.
Mrs. Mills recalls that Mr. Hutchins has two brothers in Atlanta. She gave their names to the chief, and fice, now is seeking them.

She remembers that her foster-father had a meat market somewhere on Mangum street. But that was thirteen years ago, before they left Atlanta and took her to Savannah.

Mrs. Mills doesn't say anything of her marriage. But in her letter to the chief was a photograph of her self and her baby.

And she is seeking her mother, or her name, if her mother is beyond her search.

Woman Lessee of Hotel Wins Verdict,
But Can't Collect

A unique damage suit in which the plaintiff lost a suit against two solvent men and won a verdict against an insolvent man, was heard before Judge Ellis in the Superior Court
Tuesday morning.

Mrs. N. E. Dumas was the plaintiff.
She was awarded a verdict against H. E. Evans who is a bankrupt, and lost her suit against G. Ware and W.
J. Hooper, real estate agents.

The suit was for recovery of $100 alleged to have been paid as a lease on the Carnegie Hotel, or the Carnegie Apartments, situated on Carnegie Way, which Mrs. Dumas declared she found to have a bad reputation after she had taken out the lease.

Judge Lets Audience Adjourn Court Term

HARTWELL, Oct. 21.—When the October term of Hart Superior Court convened here, Judge David W. Meadow left it to a vote of the audience whether the term should be postponed because of the busy season with the farmers, and the audience voted overwhelmingly for a postponement.

The adjourned term will be held on the second Monday in December.

Blankets and Comforters to Repel Jack Frost

Trunk Prices Travel Downward, Because We Don't Wish to Move the Trunks Upward

A Clearaway of Trunks and Baby Carriages
To Make Room for Thousands of New Toys

Case load after case load of Toys are stacked ceiling high. The thousands and thousands of Toys clamor to be shown. To make room we must move all trunks and baby carriages upstairs. But we haven't any too much room upstairs—the best solution seems to be to sell the trunks rather than move 'em; hence, these clipped prices.

$8.50 to $11.50 Sample Trunks, $4.95

Steamer and regular trunks, 32 to 40-inch ber tired wheels. (Slightly marred.)

$8.50 to $19.50 Baby Carriages, $4.95

Seven carriages, slightly marred. Reclining back, fine upholstery, steel frame, rubber tired wheels.

$10 Allwin Folding Go-Carts, $5.95

The justly approved Allwin go-cart. The justly approved All-win go-cart, reclining back, drop front and folding hood.
Black or tan.

Luxurious Coats: Lowly Priced
Fabrics of Elegance Stylishly Fashioned

Soft, luxurious velvets and woolsens that rival furs in their warmth and beauty.
Broadcloth plushes; kinky, woolly chinchillas;
furry-looking Astrakhan, imitation moleskins, elegant broadcloths with fur or plush trimmings; a whole lot of shabaz, under-downs and warmth-without-weight wools.

The coats have been piling in until the racks fairly groan under their weight.
Assortments and selections have been accumulating against the first cold spell, and here are the coats to defy Jack Frost:

Brocade Plush coats, $25.
Astrakhan coats, $19.75 to $25.
Chinchilla coats, $25 to $35.

SULZER LETS GO BROADSIDE AT MURPHY

Long-Promised Statement, He Says Tammany Man Tried to Lend Him Money.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—That Charles Sulzer, leader of Tammany Hall, has decided to let William Sulzer, the incumbent of the office of governor, have his way in the matter of the Tammany Hall, the chief made today in an interview with a newspaper.

Sulzer said he experienced surprise when Murphy approached him and asked him money with which to pay the debt on the house which he had bought in New York City.

The disclosure was the long-promised statement which Mr. Sulzer had made during his trial in Albany, but which was withheld by his lawyers.

Murphy is alleged to have demanded appointments with the governor, and the second meeting took place at the home of Judge McCall, the Tammany candidate for mayor.

Sulzer went on to say that at that time, he was not in a position to lend money to Murphy, but that he was not in a position to refuse him.

Murphy wanted James Gaffney, a close friend of Tammany Hall, to act as his intermediary.

NEW MONEY ACT WILL HELP US, SAYS BANKER

Greatest Financier in West Praises Currency Bill and Denounces Present Bank Law.

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES. WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The most striking comment yet made in the currency bill comes from one of the greatest, if not the greatest, banker in the West.

John T. M. Johnston is president of the National Reserve Bank of Kansas City, capital one and one-half millions, and by official connection and relation exercises an influence of a hundred banks in the Southwest including the First National Bank of Muskogee, Okla.

"The resolution of the Senate convention at Boston condemning the currency bill as 'stagnation and revolutionary' should not be taken too seriously. I believe the fundamental principles of the bill are acceptable to the majority of the bankers of the United States. The banks of America realize that the currency of our country today is handicapped. It is struggling under a monetary law which is obsolete and revolutionary."

Present Law Obsolete. "The law which the present bank law has been in force for over half a century and is now obsolete. It was enacted for the purpose of raising the money market, but it has done the opposite. It has made the money market more stagnant and more revolutionary."

"I do not know a single banker who does not acknowledge that the law is obsolete. It is a law which was enacted for the purpose of raising the money market, but it has done the opposite. It has made the money market more stagnant and more revolutionary."

"The money market is now in a state of stagnation. It is a law which was enacted for the purpose of raising the money market, but it has done the opposite. It has made the money market more stagnant and more revolutionary."

Cold's Quick Advent Causes Appeal for Clothing for Poor

With the unexpected coming of the cold weather the office of Joseph C. Logan, secretary of the Associated Charities, was crowded Tuesday with the poor of Atlanta seeking clothing.

Mr. Logan had none to give them.

Usually when winter comes he has a storehouse full of cast-off clothing that has been donated to the charities, but the cold weather came so suddenly this year that no clothing has yet been collected.

Mr. Logan Tuesday issued his annual appeal for old clothing and requests that all Atlantans who have second-hand clothing of any size, shape or pattern notify him and it will be sent for.

"We have in our care hundreds of widows and orphans who are unable to buy the proper clothing for themselves," Mr. Logan said, "and we must depend on the kindness of the people of Atlanta for their clothing. We are glad to get any kind of clothing, and we will be glad to get it if the donor will telephone us and tell us where to come."

Commerce Chamber To Use Booklet on Banks to Boost City

Following action taken by the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon, Secretary W. M. Southern announced the completion of a booklet on "Financial Atlanta," the first of a series which will be issued on Atlanta industries.

The first booklet will contain the name and history of every bank and trust company in the city, together with figures showing their capital, surplus, etc. The book will be illustrated with photographs of some of the larger bank buildings.

The Chamber of Commerce has forwarded to The Christian Science Monitor, of Boston, a copy of the booklet, dealing extensively with its financial resources.

Bishop Scores Vast Outlay for Armament

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—A striking contrast of the amount of money contributed for Christian missions and the amount expended by European nations for army and navy equipment was made by Bishop Joseph Schrems, of Toledo, Ohio, at the Catholic Missionary Conference, Bishop Schrems said:

"There are one billion people in the world who have not heard the name of Christ. The whole Catholic world has not contributed over $100,000,000 among those people, while the combined powers of Europe are expending to-day more than $2,000,000,000 for armaments."

WOMAN SHRIES AT ACCUSER IN 'RITUAL' CASE

'Liar!' She Screams, Rushing to Witness Stand—Upbraas as She Is Overpowered.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—A telegram received today from Lode stated that a man named Baginski, who is under arrest there, has confessed to murdering Andrew Yankovsky, the Kiev boy whose death resulted in the charge of a "ritual murder" against Mendel Beilis.

The Ministry of Justice has ordered an inquiry.

KIEV, RUSSIA, Oct. 21.—A dramatic incident today caused a temporary halt in the "ritual murder" trial of Mendel Beilis and caused a scene of confusion in the courtroom.

Another charged, formerly employed in the house in which the Yankovsky family lived, had been recalled to the stand by the defense to tell of conversations he overheard in the apartments of Vera Tcherpakoff, the mysterious witness.

The witness swore that he once overheard Vera say, "I must finish with Andrew Yankovsky, as he is a hindrance."

Vera, her face convulsed with rage, jumped from her seat and rushed toward the witness box screaming: "You lie, and you know it, you spy!"

A guard seized the woman and the witness box was closed. Vera was then taken to the prison.

The government's charge against Beilis is believed to have fallen flat because of the damaging evidence addressed to the prosecution by the last three witnesses called, the prosecutor this afternoon went into conference with Judge Beldin, president of the court.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS YOU NEED A RIVAL.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I have been reading your column for some time and have enjoyed it very much. I am a girl of sixteen and have been in love with a boy for some time. I have been very much in love with him and he has been very much in love with me. I have been very much in love with him and he has been very much in love with me. I have been very much in love with him and he has been very much in love with me.

NOT IF SHE OBJECTS.

Up-to-Date Jokes

The late Lord Young was responsible for enlivening many a dull car. One of the most amusing remarks he ever made was when he was in reply to a question as to what he thought of the new motor cars. "They are very much like the old ones," he said. "The only difference is that the new ones are a little more expensive."

Household Suggestions

When a splinter gets under a finger nail it is often very hard to draw out. In such a case, if a cold water bandage is put round the tip of the finger and then kept wet and cold it will in time both draw out splinter and keep finger from festering.

To clean the inside of a silver teapot, mix together equal quantities of soda, vinegar and flour. Paste this around the inside of the pot and let it stand overnight. It will make the inside as bright as possible with very little labor.

When cooking kippers, place them on a dish or tin with a piece of butter on each; cover and leave in a fairly hot oven for ten minutes. This method preserves the juice and the flavor of the fish better than frying.

When cleaning wood steps and hearths mix the white borax with one part of water. Rub this over the wood and it will not only be washed off so quickly with rain or be trodden off.

Net only is powdered oatmeal good for the complexion, but a little of it thrown into the water in which the face and hands are bathed has a soothing and whitening effect.

Sprinkle a few tablespoonsful of salt over the kitchen floor after it is made up, and it will keep going for hours without requiring any attention.

A piece of starch placed in the water will keep flowers fresh for quite a long period.

One Reason.
The benevolent citizen, while walking along the street, spotted a little boy weeping. So he walked up to the child and said, "Now, be a good boy and stop crying."
The child replied, "I can't."
"Why can't you?"
"I can't," said the boy. "Tell me why I can't be a good boy and stop crying."
"Cause I'm a boy!"

BY LOUIS TRACY
A THRILLING STORY OF A MODERN CRISTO

(Copyright, 1914, by Edward J. Clode.)
TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.
The scene in Court, and found himself surprisedly described as "pert, mannerly," "impassioned," "highly intelligent," "endowed with this veneer of education," and "droll."

A Good Laugh.
Philipp could afford to laugh at the unfavorable epithets. Up to the age of 13 he had been trained in a first-rate school, and his work was supervised by his mother, a woman of very great culture. He spoke French as well as English, and spoke both admirably. He knew some Greek and Latin, was well advanced in arithmetic, and had a special penchant for history and geography.

It was in the glowing article which appeared during his imprisonment that he took the keenest interest. Oddly enough, one ingenious correspondent, burdened on to a clue. Gifted with an analytical mind, he had reasoned that the diamond-laden motor, full during the extraordinary storm of the 19th, and the Meteorological Department in Victoria street helped him by describing the center of the disturbance as situated somewhat to the east of the London Hospital.

This writer had actually interviewed a member of the staff of that institution, who, amidst himself by noting barometrical vagaries. His instrument recorded an extraordinary increase of pressure soon after 10 o'clock on the night of the storm.

"Alas!" added the writer, "it did not indicate where the motor fell, and not a policeman, bus driver or railway official can be found who observed any thing beyond a phenomenal electrical display and a violent downpour of rain."

That was too close to be pleasant, and Philipp was glad to hear that the motor had been found. He had already decided upon it, but he thought it was rather clever to refer to the possibilities of "future business."

As for the double transfer, he distinctly remembered copying letters dealing with several such transactions at the time of the coal company's conversion into a limited liability company.

He was early to bed, and his rest was not disturbed by dreams. He rose long before the ordinary readers, dressing his breakfast, he walked to Fleet street and purchased copies of morning and evening papers for the whole of the week.

He could thus enjoy the rare luxury of seeing himself as others saw him. He read the perfunctory descriptions of

"We are fortunate in finding the managing director of the Cardiff and Havre Coal Company, Ltd., at his office. Although the company require the mine for the purpose of a depot, they are not unwilling to sell, with a stipulation that the premises shall not be used by any competing company during a period of twenty years from the date of transfer. We stated that the site was required for a philanthropic purpose, but the latter stipulation is insisted on. The price asked is two thousand two hundred pounds, which we consider excessive, there being a very inadequate approach. Moreover, we wish to point out that O'Brien's shop does not adjoin the mine, and it would be necessary to purchase two other houses to make the entire property a compact one."

"However, adhering to the letter of your instructions, we have pleasure in informing you that the two properties can be acquired with very little delay, for two thousand six hundred and fifty pounds. The legal and other charges will not exceed one hundred and fifty pounds. We trust, etc."

Philipp immediately wrote:

"I am greatly obliged by your promptitude the matter of Johnson's mine and the shop. I intend check herself for two thousand eight hundred pounds. The purchase of the other houses can stand over for a few days."

This he dispatched by special messenger, and in a few minutes he had a formal receipt.

A TELEGRAM came for him. It was from Mr. Abernethy.

"Can you get me a car at my house?"

Then Philipp enjoyed his first real breathing space during hours of daylight. He went by train to the country in which his mother was buried, carrying with him a beautiful wreath.

It was a remarkable fact that this was the first time he had been to her grave. During the days of misery and partial madness which followed her death he had never left the delusion that her spirit abided with him in the poor dwelling he called "home."

It was a remarkable fact that this was the first time he had been to her grave. During the days of misery and partial madness which followed her death he had never left the delusion that her spirit abided with him in the poor dwelling he called "home."

He realized that she was really dead and buried; that what he revered as her spirit was in truth a faint memory, that he would be trespassing on her mortal remains when standing in the shadow of the tomb. He was conscious of the fact that he was trespassing on the poorest of the poor—himself.

The Dissatisfied Wife

A Talk by Beatrice Fairfax

"My husband says I am extravagant. He quarrels with me all the time about the bills. Now I suppose I could save a few dollars a week if I stayed right in the kitchen day and night, and went to market myself and pinched every penny till the wretch starved; but I don't think a man has a right to ask a woman to sacrifice her whole life like that—just to save a few dollars a month. I don't. I think I have more to do than to be a slave to the world as I am than to be a slave to my husband as I am."

"If an ambitious man, a servant, a housekeeper, I thought he loved me, I don't believe he ever did at all, or he wouldn't be a man to me."

"What shall I do to make him see things in the right light?"

"See things in the right light, say what you like, and let him know that you are so very valuable to the world, and so very valuable to him."

"What more to the world?"

"Where on earth did you get that phrase and what ought you to do to it? You ought to tell him that you are so very valuable to the world, and so very valuable to him."

"What more to the world?"

Women's Use of the Ballot

FROM EDWIN MARKHAM

MISS JESSIE ACKERMAN, who has traveled eight times around the globe, has put into a pamphlet (issued by William B. Eerdmans, of Grand Rapids, Mich.) the results of her observations on the use of the ballot by women in the various countries of the world where it has been granted operation. The book is called "What Women Have Done With the Vote." From the chapter dealing with Australia I pick out a few sentences. "After six weeks in the East of London, where I earned my living as a dressmaker, and having, as a result of my conviction that there are conditions of the social order that will never be removed until the women of the world are well provided with the power to help put them down."

"The women are divided into two classes. Those who are well provided with the power to help put them down, and those who are not well provided with the power to help put them down."

Giants' Scrappy Manager Picks Collins, While Old Slugger Sticks Out For Wagner.

By Bill Lange.
(Famous Slugger Years Ago.)

THE GREATEST player in the game today, but I can't agree with you. I think Hovey Wagner of the Pirates, stands out above Collins. I would not go so far as to say that Wagner is the king of the game, but I think he is the greatest player in the National or the American League might have done the same thing had he been given the opportunity.

I don't want to take any credit from Collins, but in fact, I think Wagner, one of the greatest ball players in the game, is a real slugger. I simply like to speak a few words in his defense.

This wonderful Pittsburgh infielder has been playing major league ball since 1897, when he started out with the old Louisville club, when the National League had ten teams on its list. He has been going ever since, and he always has been right up with the stars.

Fame Time of Players.
Now, Collins has been a bit for four years only. I will have to admit that he is a remarkable youngster and that he has gotten away with some plays which made the whole country talk. But so had Wagner and his contemporaries. He was a little more than a child, and still old Hovey is still a gentleman.

But I don't believe that sometimes that life of the grand old man is a real slugger. The public is looking for a new hero, and they are just coming to the front, while Wagner has been there so long that they probably consider him a has-been. But he is still a very fine and active player, and he is a real slugger. He will be good for many a day to come.

Now, more Collins to the front will be a good thing. He has much to offer. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman.

The public is looking for a new hero, and they are just coming to the front, while Wagner has been there so long that they probably consider him a has-been. But he is still a very fine and active player, and he is a real slugger. He will be good for many a day to come.

Now, more Collins to the front will be a good thing. He has much to offer. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman. He is a real slugger, and he is a real gentleman.

Giants Win Third Straight From Sox By Score of 6 to 4

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—The Giants took their third straight game from the White Sox, 6 to 4, here this afternoon. Thorpe and Doan helped McGraw men carry off the victory by pounding out home runs.

The Sox managed to secure twelve hits of Proulx and Mathewson, while the Giants were able to collect but fifteen off Root and Hein. A batting rally in the fourth inning netted the winners four runs.

To Keep the Jews Prisoners in the Russian Pale

That Was the First Purpose of the False "Blood Accusation." To Encourage Massacre the Second Purpose.

Copyright, 1918, by Star Company

Underlying every fresh and false charge of "ritual murder" you find a very well defined purpose. In the Middle Ages the accusation was made as an excuse for murdering Jews to get their money.

Today in Russia the old, brutal lies about religious murder are revived for political effect, to prevent any interference with the system under which the Jews—men, women and children—are kept prisoners in the pale, and to keep alive the ignorant, superstitious, bigoted hatred of the peasants—cunningly aimed against the Jews in order that they may not turn upon the Government that brutalizes them.

In the Duma, which is the Russian apology for a legislative body, there has been recently an effort to abolish the pale, and give to the Jews the freedom of residence and of activity which they have so wisely and usefully exercised in this and in other countries.

The abolition of the pale, which Russia along with other tyrannies still preserves, would give to the Jews freedom, opportunity and the power, among other things, to work more efficiently against tyranny.

Consequently the energies of the police and of the Czar's representatives in the Duma to fight every effort to abolish the pale.

A brief synopsis of the accusation and the motive back of it is furnished by a capable writer, "Mentor," in the London Chronicle. We quote:

A deputy of the Duma, belonging to the "Right Russian" section, M. Malinoff, when he read an account of the tragedy, perceived that the story could be used against Jews in the campaign he was carrying on to prevent the abolition of the pale of settlement. He travelled from St. Petersburg to Kiev, and after conferring with the leaders of the reactionary party in the "Holy" City, he established a regular headquarters there for the distribution of anti-Jewish proclamations, in which he charged the Jews with having murdered the boy Yushchinsky.

The former Chief of the Kiev detectives was ordered by the Russian Department of Justice to formulate a ritual murder theory on the case. M. Minschuk, the head of the Detective Department, after investigating all the facts, declared that in his opinion Belits did not murder the boy, and that Yushchinsky had not been murdered for ritual purposes. M. Minschuk was immediately put upon his trial, together with a number of his assistants for "attempting to help the Jews." He was acquitted by the Supreme Court of Kiev last November, but against the acquittal the public prosecutor appealed. M. Minschuk was again tried, this time in Kharkov. He was declared to be guilty of having manufactured evidence to disprove the ritual murder theory, and he was sentenced to imprisonment for one year, his assistants being also condemned to punishment.

M. Malinoff, one of those who is defending Belits, makes the following observations in regard to the case:

"It is important to know," he says, "that a Jew was not first arrested. The 'ritual murder' theory was invented after the fact."

In the Middle Ages, as we have already pointed out, a number of rulers denounced the avarice, brutality and cruelty which always underlay this false and cowardly charge against the Jews.

More than one of the Popes, moved by a humane impulse, has protested with the full authority of the Church against the same cowardly crime.

We publish here a bull issued by Pope Innocent IV, translated by Herman L. Strack, Regius Professor of Berlin University. With great difficulty we can conceive of the horrible condition of cruelty and cowardice which Pope Innocent denounces and forbids in his bull sent to the Archbishop of Vienna in 1247—almost seven hundred years ago. We cannot conceive of such atrocities duplicated in this century—EXCEPT IN RUSSIA.

This is the bull which Pope Innocent IV, scattered broadcast, desiring to protect the Jews from the brutality of his day.

Read it. It is of itself an education and a revelation as to dreadful human brutality, masquerading in the name of Christianity, and torturing Jews for profit.

Pope Innocent said:

"If the Christian religion were carefully to weigh how inhuman and contrary to piety it is to torment with divers oppressions and persecutions with manifold grave injuries, the survivors of the Jews, to whom, as the remaining witnesses of the idolatry suffering."

and the virtuous death, the goodness of the Saviour has promised the grace of salvation, then would it not only keep his hands from doing them injury, but would also at least for the sake of the semblance of piety, and out of reverence for Christ, impart the contagion."

Celestial Freak Mystifies Scientists

Astronomers Unable to Account for Existence of Strange Astral Body Recorded by Practically Unknown Russian Scientist

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

THERE is a strange fish in the sky, a kind of astronomical "What-It," which made its first appearance to human eyes on September 8, when a young Russian astronomer, named Neulmin, in his remote observatory at Simla, in the Crimea, found its image on a photographic plate that he had exposed to the sky three nights earlier.

Strange Body Didn't Have the Appearance of a Comet.

It did not look like a comet, and Neulmin thought that it must be a little planet, and so he announced it to the astronomical world. The matter was turned over to certain astronomers who make a specialty of the study of the asteroids, or little planets, and they, after a careful examination, reported it. They declared that it could not be a planet, and must be a comet. They consequently declined to put it on their list.

But the mystery only deepened, for nobody could remember ever having seen such a comet as this. It looked like a star, but moved, as no real star could do. For a few nights it appeared very slightly elongated, but then it lost this appearance and became round again. There was no tail—not even the root of a tail; the great Lock telescope failed to show the slightest trace of one.

Great difficulty was encountered in making out the path in which it travelled. According to some calculations it had been nearest to the sun as long ago as July 22, and was, at the moment of its discovery, fast, gliding away again into space. According to others its nearest approach to the sun was a day or two after its discovery. At the Lick Observatory, where they do not call it either comet or planet, but give it the non-committal and mysterious designation of the "Object Neulmin," a period of revolution around the sun of nearly seventeen and a half years has been assigned to the stranger, but they add that, while there cannot be any doubt about the elliptical nature of the orbit, the period of revolution may be shortened as the result of further observations. In the meantime the "Object Neulmin" has been provisionally accepted in the cometary shepherd, to be turned out into the cold later, perhaps, if its claim cannot be made good.

An "Object" in the sky, about whose nature the astronomers themselves are in doubt—that is surely a new sensation! And yet we ought not to be very much surprised by it. The heavens are full of mysteries. Space is occupied by unknown, and ordinarily invisible, bodies of many kinds.

The sun is carrying the earth continually into new regions, travelling northward at least 375,000,000 miles per year, and there is plenty of evidence that the contents of space, though which we are moving, vary to an astonishing degree.

In some places vast nebulae spread their glimmering wings and sprawling spirals over billions of miles. The earth caught in one of these celestial maelstroms would be torn out into the cold later, perhaps, if its claim cannot be made good.

An "Object" in the sky, about whose nature the astronomers themselves existence is only shown when they obscure hosts of stars behind them. Like gigantic curtains of black stuff, these nebulous monsters may burst our course like the pitfalls, gins and snares of the Philistine Progress.

Elsewhere we see great stars, some of them far mightier than the sun, staggering under the burden of one or more huge, dark bodies, or swarms of smaller objects, which have attached themselves to them by the hooks of gravitation and cannot be shaken off. If the sun should ever, like Sisyphus, fall into the clutches of one of these "Old Men of the Sea" that lurk around the shores and shallows of the ocean of space, he could never free his neck from its clinging limbs. There is no woe that can instigate gravitation and paralyze its grip. Strange objects in the solar system? If ever they begin to be seen in considerable numbers we shall have reason to fear that the sun is running us into danger in his headlong course. Every great dark body in space must have socks of them about it. Every spinning nebula must be casting them off by millions.

Occupation of Watching the Stars is Most Fascinating.

What occupation so fascinating as that of the watchers for these things, the astronomers, who regard the stars, the sun, the planets, the comets with tireless patience, keeping account of their behavior and of their motions, and once in a while like the young Russian, in his lone Crimean observatory, saying something to which they can give no other name than that of AN UNKNOWN OBJECT IN THE SKY.

A New Theosophical Lodge—It Was Founded in New Haven, Where Blue Laws Flourished 150 Years Ago. A Woman Is Its Head.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1918, by Star Company.

THE framers of the famous old blue laws of Connecticut, were they sleeping in their graves, as their theology taught, waiting the resurrection morn, would turn and protest could they know the event that took place in New Haven, Conn., on October 14.

That event was the formation of a theosophical lodge, under the inspiring direction of Mrs. Marie Bernard Russak, of Andover, Ind. Mrs. Russak is the daughter of A. M. Barnard, who was Justice of the Supreme Court of the State and lived in Mendon. Her grandfather was Frederick Timothy Barnard, also of Mendon, who also was Supreme Court Justice in Kings County. She was born in California and believes that this is only one of many incarnations which she has undergone.

Mrs. Russak's Story Is Like Arabian Nights Tale.

The writer met Mrs. Russak in London, where she was giving important advice to Anna Besant during her lecture season. Mrs. Russak recounted her experiences in becoming a theosophist, experiences which to the material mind would seem like tales from the Arabian Nights. But one who looks upon her beautiful and noble face, and hears her lovely voice, knows she speaks only truth.

After her return to America Mrs. Russak said to the writer: "I have come to America because I realize that the world today is grappling with the great forces of life and death, and because I know that truth is running the gamut between religious bigotry without scientific fact and science without religious faith. The true re-incarnation, which theosophy teaches, solves all that problem."

It restores faith in divine justice to the pessimist, to the atheist, to the agnostic. The very fact that humanity is divided into different grades in a school of life, and that people are at different stages, shows in a way that the doctrine of reincarnation is not only a moral but a scientific necessity for solving these problems.

It Explains Why a Savage and a Herbert Spencer Live at Same Time.

"It explains why there is a savage on the earth and a Herbert Spencer at the same time. It explains child genius. It explains why one soul is born the son of a king and another the son of an original parent in the slum of a city. They are both divinely created, but are at different stages in the school of life, storing up capacity for everything that concerns our life."

Mrs. Russak does not put forth the doctrine that a Messiah was coming to America in the near future, but she holds, as many others of her propaganda do, that a spiritual teacher will appear to settle the social unrest, labor troubles and religious antagonisms and to bring about international peace.

Some of Its Members May Be Blue Law Makers Reincarnated.

But it will grow. It is quite possible some of its members are reincarnated souls of those framers of the blue laws come back to earth with larger wisdom and broader understanding and eager to know more. Mrs. Russak is well compensated on having had the privilege of hearing Mrs. Russak lecture on theosophy October 14.

tion of humanity to those who to a certain extent pay tribute to it. Now a petition of the Jews of Vienna to us states that the nobleman Dracometas, after the Jews of Valais had been accused of having crucified a girl who was found dead in a ditch, despoiled three Jews without their having been convicted or having confessed, nay, without anyone having accused them, of all their property, and consigned them to terrible imprisonment, refused them legal redress and justification of their innocence, had some of them cut to pieces, others burnt. The genital organs were torn off the men, and the breasts off the women, and they were tortured with all manner of tortures until they admitted with their mouths what their conscience knew nothing about, because they preferred to die once in agony than to live and be continually tortured.

"In order to increase the agony of the tortured, the Bishop of Toul-Chateau, and some magistrates of the province had seized this opportunity to rob all the Jews dwelling in their districts of their possessions, and to imprison and torture those whom the Apostolic See has taken under its protection, by various forcible methods and oppressions. They have therefore humbly entreated us mercifully to be solicitous for their innocence. As, therefore, when there has been no attested crime, no one shall suffer punishment, and also no one may be punished for another's crime, we, filled with fatherly sympathy for them, command you, if things are so, to cause the bishop and the others to restore to the aforesaid Jews their freedom and belongings, to give them compensation, and to allow them to live unharmed."

Thus brutality was rebuked by the Pope seven centuries ago in Europe. Will not the people of this country find words, courage, power and influence to rebuke effectively that same brutality in Russia to-day?

STARS AND STRIPES

The greatest occasion of all is encountered when man attempts to come back.

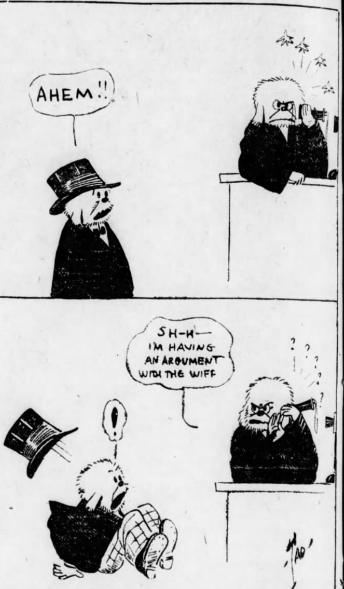

The girl who is a good listener can generally find more to learn than she is a good talker.

The enemy made in days of poverty usually has a good memory when fortune turns upon you.

Some men spend so much time looking over the shoulder that they never make a move worth anything.

ELECTION TO KEEP SEAT FOR HUERTA

Dictator Orders Balloting as Scheduled, and Neither of Five Candidates Can Get Majority.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—General Huerta made known to-day that the presidential election will be held on October 26, as scheduled. This means Huerta will remain in office after that date.

There are five parties in the field with candidates. In view of the internal situation, it is certain no candidate can receive a majority. The constitution requires that the successful candidate must receive a majority.

It is expected that the crisis in the relations between Mexico and the United States will come soon after the election. Announcement will be made that the electors have failed to choose a new President, and Huerta will continue in office as constitutional President ad interim.

The parties in the field and their presidential candidates are: Catholic, Frederick Gamboa; Felicista, Felix Diaz; Liberal Progressive, David de la Fuente; Anti-Re-election, Vasquez Gomez.

Rodolfo Rev's, former Minister of Justice, would have been nominated by the Republicans, but he is in prison on a charge of sedition.

The belief is general that the return of Felix Diaz to Mexico City will be the signal for dangerous rioting.

With the election but six days off, few actual preparations have been made for balloting on a successor to Huerta. The election machinery throughout practically the entire republic is controlled by Huerta's military governors.

THOMAS E. WATSON, once Bryan's running mate, who was freed at Augusta Tuesday of a charge of mailing obscene matter. The indictment against him was quashed. Below he is shown with his daughter, Georgia, four years old, and on the right, Georgia Lee, also four years old.

COURT SUSTAINS PLEA OF EDITOR

Judge Foster Ends Case Against Thomson Man Charging Mail Statute Violation.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 21.—Judge Foster in United States District Court here this afternoon sustained the motion of counsel for Thomas E. Watson, the Thomson editor, lawyer and politician, to quash the indictment against him, charging the sending of obscene matter through the United States mails. This motion, presented Monday by S. Guyt McLendon, chief of counsel for Mr. Watson, charged that to try him on this indictment would be to deny him his constitutional rights as a citizen, and the clause granting freedom to the press.

The indictment of Mr. Watson was the outgrowth of publications in The Jeffersonian attacking the Catholic Church's confessional and the oath taken by initiates in the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic fraternity.

Watson Arrives Early.

Court opened this morning at 10:10 o'clock. The room was packed to capacity long before that hour. Mr. Watson was an early arrival. With him sat Mr. McLendon, his leading counsel; Judge J. B. Burnside, associated in the defense, and Major C. E. McGregor, of Warrenton, a close friend.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with. Judge Foster asked if there were any motions from members of the bar. District Attorney Alex Akerman presented a number of orders for the judge to sign.

Mr. McLendon resumed the argument on his motion to quash the indictment. He said the court had stated that the Supreme Court had held the law to be constitutional which prohibits sending of obscene matter through the mails. Mr. McLendon cited a decision to show that the constitutionality of the point at issue in the Watson case had never been attacked, namely, the sending of newspapers and periodicals containing obscene matter through the mails.

Will Probe Fisher's Charges for Plot

Police Tuesday considered the exonerated of J. C. Shirley complete. Charles J. Graham, attorney for the man accused by Ira W. Fisher of the murder of Mary Phagan, said that he was as yet undecided whether Fisher's accusations were the ravings of a diseased and dope-steeped mind or the first evidence of a deep-laid plot with Fisher as the tool.

Two prominent Atlanta men and one Birmingham man are threatened with arrest on charges of conspiracy. A searching investigation by Chief Lanford and Attorney Graham will decide whether this move will be taken. Graham said Tuesday that he would make a decision as soon as reports had been made to him on certain rumors that had come to his ears.

Shirley said that he either would put Fisher in the asylum or in the penitentiary. He will bring his books to the police Tuesday to show a complete alibi. Lanford has instituted an investigation of the charges of conspiracy and will make arrests at once if he finds them substantiated. Two of the men named in the alleged conspiracy have been identified with the Frank case. The other one is known to have been with Fisher in Birmingham.

Yellow Fever Germ In Blackmail Plot

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The use of the yellow fever germ as an agent of the blackmailer formed a new problem to-day for the Chicago police.

Detectives were making vain efforts to find a man who threatened to inoculate Mrs. Frederick M. Steele, wife of a wealthy manufacturer, and her children, if $25,000 was not left in a secluded spot in Grant Park. A letter, accompanied by a tiny cardboard box, demanded the money. In the cardboard box a chemist found enough yellow fever germs to inoculate a hundred persons.

STATE FAIR GATES BURN.

MACON, Oct. 21.—The immense entrance gates and office building of the Georgia State Fair Association at Central Park City burned this morning several hours before the time set for the opening of the fair. The blaze is believed to have been caused by defective wiring.

The fair officials declare that this untimely occurrence will not hinder the fair in any respect. Carpenters are already at work preparing a temporary entrance.

LOVED OWN COOKERY.

On the heels of a record of much rectitude and excellent cooking, Tobe Rason, chef at the Grady Hospital, has got into trouble. The disappearance of certain choice steaks and other staples and delicacies from the larder of the hospital have given much annoyance to the steward of late, but such was Tobe's reputation for probity that he was the last person suspected. Finally, however, he was watched. His pockets bulged suspiciously as he left the hospital last night. Fancy cuts of steak caused the bulges. Tobe was arrested.

5,000 CHILDREN HONOR HERO.

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 21.—Five thousand school children marched in the funeral procession which to-day followed to the grave the body of Jacob Bilz, city light tender, who gave his life in saving 5-year-old Robert Rudisile from death under a railroad train.

SETTLE WITH PENNIES.

OXFORD, PA., Oct. 21.—When the local tax collector refused to accept checks proffered to him, the taxpayers planned revenge and paid their obligations in pennies. Twelve thousand pennies poured in on the first day.

RYAN GAVE $10,000 TO WILSON CAMPAIGN FUND

GIFT WAS SOUGHT BY COL. HARVEY

SUFFRAGETTES ASSAIL ROYALTY AT WEDDING

BRIDE OF PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT.

ATTACK IS MADE ON S. PRISON

Underwood Made Charge, but Refused to Let It Go in the Record.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Oscar W. Underwood's charge that Thomas Fortune Ryan contributed $10,000 to the campaign fund of President Wilson when he ran for Governor of New Jersey made on the floor of the House does not appear in The Congressional Record to-day. It was expunged by the Democratic floor leader after he had been told by the White House that Mr. Wilson had received nothing from Mr. Ryan.

It can be said on the highest authority, however, that Mr. Underwood made the statement on information that came to him directly from persons so close to the multi-millionaire Wall street man that Mr. Underwood was justified in placing the greatest faith in its reliability and made the statement in his reply to the charges of Representative Hobson, of Alabama, with a full belief in its truth.

Harvey Sought Gift. Notwithstanding the denial issued from the White House, The Georgian learned from one of its men chiefly instrumental in bringing about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for Governor of New Jersey that Thomas Fortune Ryan did contribute $10,000 to the Wilson gubernatorial campaign.

Colonel George Harvey, according to this newspaper's informant, sought and obtained the contribution. From the same source it was ascertained that James Smith, Jr., formerly United States Senator from New Jersey, who at the time of Dr. Wilson's nomination for Governor was the undisputed "boss" of the Democratic party in his State, contributed in the posed," makes the following statement:

"The campaign has now progressed far enough to enable the Democratic voters to know the methods that are being exploited by the Wall street crowd to capture the Baltimore convention. Mr. Harman and Mr. Underwood are the reactionary candidates.

"Mr. Harman was picked out first, but the big business began to smile on Mr. Underwood as soon as it became evident that Mr. Harman was not making headway as a candidate. They have now divided up the territory in which they think a reactionary has a chance, and Mr. Harman is running in a few States in the North and Mr. Underwood in six States in the South.

"Had I known that Thomas Fortune Ryan, the man whom Mr. Bryan rebuked and named at the Baltimore convention and accused of being the tool of Wall street and of trying to capture the party in the interest of Wall street, was financing the major part of the campaign of Oscar W. Underwood, not only would I not have supported him but I would have fought him, and what is more, he never would have been the choice of the people of Alabama.

False Pretenses Charged. "Mr. Speaker, the support of the people of Alabama was secured for Mr. Underwood for the Presidency under false pretenses. I here declare that their support of him for the United States Senate shall not be similarly obtained under false pretenses."

RAPS U. S. PRISON CHIEF. Dr. William M. Richards left Atlanta Wednesday for Indianapolis to consult Warden William Meyer, of the Atlanta Federal prison, and to "lay it on" to Robert V. LaDow, superintendent of Federal Prisons. Dr. Richards Tuesday went to the prison with the intention of examining the prisoners and equipment of the prison. He had with him a letter of introduction from Superintendent LaDow.

Because Warden Meyer was out of the city other officials would not allow Dr. Richards to make his investigation.

Dr. Richards came here from New York.

CALLS BACK SULZER FOES. ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Hurry calls were sent to all the State Assemblymen to-day to return here at once. Their presence was desired so that if the Sulzer Court of Impeachment refused to amend article four of the accusations against the Governor, the Board of Managers could at once present the matter to the Assembly.

Every Tammany vote was ordered to be on the ground as soon as possible.

HERE'S A "13" STORY. PATTERSON, N. J., Oct. 15.—James O. Treland hanged himself in cell 13 in the County Jail here on October 13, 1913.

Plot to Break Up Nuptials of Prince Arthur and Duchess of Fife Fails, However.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—In the presence of two reigning kings, George of England and Haakon of Norway, and their queens, as well as many other notables, including members of royal families, diplomats and officers of state, Alexandra, Duchess of Fife, was married to Prince Arthur of Connaught in the Chapel Royal of St. James Palace at noon to-day.

The event, which was the first royal wedding in England since 1905, when Princess Margaret of Connaught became the bride of the Crown Prince of Sweden, was gorgeous in every respect.

On account of the threat of militant suffragettes to break up the nuptials a solid line of police and soldiers was thrown about the palace and along the main routes traversed by the guests.

Women Braver Than Men Facing Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A story of calmness and heroism on the part of women unequalled in the history of the world was brought to port here to-day by the Grosser Kurfuerst when she arrived with 105 survivors from the burned Uranium liner Voltorno.

The courage of the women in the face of death on a burning ship in a gale at sea was in marked contrast with the cowardice of the men who made up the crew.

Although ship officers pleaded with the women to jump into the sea so they could be picked up by the small boats sent out by the rescue fleet, they refused to leave the burning ship and their children.

MUST REST FROM DANCING.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 15.—Miss Marguerite Caperton, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Caperton, is under physician's care in her home at the naval station here, and complete rest has been ordered.

Although it is announced she is suffering from a cold, the impression prevails that she has broken down under the strain of the season's dancing. The Grand Duke Michaelovich declared her the best dancer here.

Hope Is Abandoned For 381 Men in Mine

CARDIFF, WALES, Oct. 15.—Flame broke out this afternoon in the Universal mine and all attempts to rescue 381 men still entombed as a result of yesterday's explosion were abandoned.

Seven men, huddled together in a side chamber, were rescued early to-day, after being entombed 26 hours.

HUERTA TO "BACK DOWN."

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—General Huerta will back down in his attitude of defiance toward the United States. This was assured to-day when Senor Moseno, Minister of Foreign Relations, issued the following statement:

"The press of the capital interpreted erroneously some of the statements I made yesterday regarding the note which was sent to the United States. O'Shaughnessy and gave undue importance to the messages from the United States.

"The Government of the Republic has, indeed, received from the American State Department, through his excellency, the Charge d'Affaires, two messages which are going to be answered by the Government and which in no way modify the status quo of our relations with the neighboring republic of the North.

"The country in due course will know these messages and the replies." On Tuesday Moseno had denounced the American notes as "intemperate threats of death."

U. S. BALLOON WINS.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The American balloon Goodyear to-day was officially declared the winner of the international balloon race.

All doubt as to its victory was set at rest when it was learned that the Austrian balloon Frankfurt had landed at Sonzeal, Brittany. Next year's race will be held in the United States.

Julian Hawthorne, Freed, Says Men Are Starved in Name of Economy.

Julian Hawthorne, the novelist, a free man Wednesday, after serving a term in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, told a startling story of his life as a convict, in which he called the Atlanta prison a "living hell," and said Warden Meyer was "unfit."

With all the emphasis at his command, Hawthorne arraigned conditions in the penitentiary as repressive, cruel, and the equal of the most lurid descriptions in fiction.

"They are starving men in the name of economy," he said.

And Dr. W. J. Morton, of New York his friend and fellow prisoner, nodded his head in corroboration.

"Prisoners are subjected to treatment that is nothing more than slow murder," said Dr. Morton, who is a practicing physician. "There is never enough to eat. The warden attempts to feed strong men on 9 cents a day, and when he succeeds he breaks about it."

In the short time they remained in Atlanta after their release, Hawthorne and Dr. Morton talked much of conditions at the penitentiary, jumping from one detail to the other with a dramatic swiftness that made the story harrowing.

"Oh, yes, you hear of the clean cells in which the prisoners sleep," said Hawthorne. "But you never hear of the 'hole,' do you? For the slightest fault, sometimes for breaking a plate, sometimes for a little more or less, a prisoner is sent to the 'hole,' a place under the main building, for solitary confinement.

"There the heat is terrific at times, and the stench is bad. There some prisoners are chained by their wrists, and held thus with arms stretched for hours. And sometimes confinement in the 'hole' is for days.

Scores Prison Fars.

"But the element of hell is in the feeding," he continued, his eyes flashing. "There was never a man goes into the prison but who undergoes a steady deterioration, maybe slow, but always sure. The doctor will tell you that."

He waved at Dr. Morton, who nodded acquiescence.

"Men are put in prison to be cared for," said Dr. Morton, "not to be subjected to slow murder."

The two accepted the invitation of a Georgian reporter to ride about Atlanta. But once in the automobile, they forgot the city, and forgot to ask of one place after another. Hawthorne gripped the sides of his seat, and vowed vengeance on the system which he described.

"And the treatment is always that of beasts or criminals," he went on. "There are always the guards and the rifles, giving the public the impression that the men in prison are wild men, or desperadoes. And now and then men are clubbed for little or nothing. There is a guard named Dean whom I have seen strike a prisoner over the head, and for no justifiable offense."

Escaped Harsh Treatment.

The reporter wondered if Hawthorne himself had come in for such treatment, and asked him.

"No," said the novelist. "I have nothing at which to complain as to my treatment. But Dr. Morton and I were given pleasant work, and were well treated otherwise. But there is the system, bringing misery to hundreds of other poor fellows."

"I got along all right, because I didn't eat the food, not bread and milk. And I got outdoors every day. Just let me get outdoors, and I'll take care of myself, in spite of food and everything else. Feel this." He fixed his right arm, and held it out for the reporter to feel. It was as hard as iron.

"But even with that, I am not at my best," he said.

MRS. EATON DENOUNCED AS POISONER OF HUSBAND

PROSECUTOR SAYS SHE WAS JEALOUS

DETECTIVE CLEARS UP DEATH MYSTERY

CORN SHOW DATES NOW ANNOUNCED

State Advances Opinion as to Motive for First Time in Case.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., Oct. 16.—Picturing Mrs. Jennie May Eaton as a woman driven to desperation by "persistent and chronic jealousy," Assistant District Attorney Katzmann to-day denounced her as the poisoner of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton. In the opening speech of her trial for murder the attorney accused Mrs. Eaton of fanning the flames of a "family feud" in the Eaton household at Assinippi until the "widow is brought before the bar of justice charged with the murder of her husband."

From the time of Mrs. Eaton's arrest last March there has been great speculation as to the motive which the government would advance. After declaring jealousy the motive the Assistant District Attorney pointed his finger at the accused widow saying:

"The government will prove by facts this defendant caused her husband's murder by administering poison known as white arsenic in his tea and other drinks."

For more than an hour Mrs. Eaton, arrayed in deep mourning, was compelled to hear the verbal lash.

Mrs. Eaton's eldest daughter, Mrs. June Ainsworth Keves, also was scored by Mr. Katzmann. He accused the daughter, June, of "inciting her mother in her jealousy."

He said that the accused widow "preferred her daughter June to her younger daughter Dorothy."

"Mrs. Eaton loved June better than any living being," declared Mr. Katzmann.

The Assistant District Attorney declared that the trouble began when June started in her early teens to have love affairs which were distasteful to her stepfather. He said this was the origin of the family feud which he charged was continually and persistently fanned by Mrs. Eaton.

WOMAN TELLS OF BRIBE.

KIEFF, Oct. 16.—A sensation was caused to-day in the "ritual murder trial" of Mendel Belliss, who is charged with slaying a 13-year-old boy as a blood sacrifice in a religious ceremony, when a woman named Vera Tchuberiak, one of the principal figures in the case, swore that she had been offered $20,000 to shoulder the guilt of the murder of Andrew Yushinsky, the 13-year-old victim.

Vera is the mother of the boy Eugene Tchuberiak, who was a play-fellow of Andrew and who met death himself subsequent to the finding of Andrew's body. The woman is of an notorious character and was denounced by the inspector of the police as being the head of a band of criminals which probably took Andrew's life.

SAYS HE KILLED GIRL.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Oct. 16.—That a prisoner in the Indiana Reformatory at Jeffersonville has made a written confession that he killed Miss Florence Brown at Dallas, Texas, July 18 last, was admitted by Superintendent David C. Peyton, of the institution.

In his confession the prisoner, who was on parole at the time of the slaying, said he had been on a protracted spree while in Dallas and was almost penniless. Seeing the young woman alone in the office, he entered for the purpose of robbery. When Miss Brown refused to unlock the safe, he killed her.

OPPOSES "PAIRING."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Representative Crisp, of the Third Georgia District, former parliamentarian of the House, introduced a resolution to repeal the rule of the House permitting pairing.

Mr. Crisp has been present in the House every day it has met during this session except one, and has answered every roll call except four. He has been paired with Representative Hinds, of Maine, also a former parliamentarian of the House. Mr. Crisp said to-day he objected to being forced to remain in Washington while Mr. Hinds was in Maine.

TO IMPROVE RIVER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Representative Adamson, of Georgia, chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, has introduced a bill for the immediate improvement of the Chattahoochee River in Georgia. It provides for the appropriation of $200,000 a year and the construction and maintenance of a permanent channel four feet deep.

Mr. Adamson also introduced a bill for Federal aid to roads, providing that the Treasury Department pay $15 per mile per year for the rent of every road used by mail carriers.

PAYS WIDOW $10,000.

DECATUR, ILL., Oct. 16.—The Foster-Shepherd damage case, resulting from the killing of Ralph Foster by Homer Shepherd, a banker, at Lovington, four years ago, has just been settled here. By the terms agreed upon Mrs. Foster receives $10,000 from Shepherd.

Foster was mistaken by Shepherd for a burglar.

Miss Dorothy Haug, on right, whose death in Thomasville baffled authorities until it was proved a suicide, and her sister, Marjorie Haug.

THOMASVILLE, Oct. 16.—Doubt on the part of a detective of the value of circumstantial evidence cleared the mystery of the death of Dorothy Haug.

And circumstantial evidence received its severest blow when Detective Pearce, of the Atlanta Pinkerton Agency, by a single suggestion proved that there was no hand in the death of Dorothy Haug save her own.

The college girl had been found dead.

There was a wound on her head. Indications were that the abrasion was the result of a blow.

Miss Haug carried $500 insurance.

Her family apparently was in straitened circumstances.

THAW PURSUIT COST $25,000.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 16.—W. T. Jerome's ten-day pursuit of Harry Thaw in Canada cost about $25,000, according to estimates made on the strength of private advices made to the Mattewan fugitive.

Of this sum, it is claimed that $20,000 is unpaid, while about $5,000 for which Jerome expects reimbursement was paid by him from his own funds.

CONFESSES TO KILLING.

GAINESVILLE, FLA., Oct. 16.—Sam Hurd has confessed to Sheriff J. D. Price, Commissioner of Agriculture, having lain in wait for him and used a single-barreled shotgun, firing three loads into his body.

Hurd told where the gun was hidden. The Sheriff got it out of a mudhole in a branch.

HOWARD AT DOUGLAS FAIR.

DOUGLASVILLE, Oct. 16.—The Douglas County Fair has opened here. J. D. Price, Commissioner of Agriculture, made the opening address. Congressman William Schley Howard made the principal address to-day. The fair will close Friday.

Thomas County attorney, on his own responsibility undertook the investigation of the girl's death. A Coroner's jury was impaneled. A warrant was ready to be sworn out. According to Colonel Hopkins, an indictment against the girl's mother was about to be drawn.

Then the detective was called in.

Detective's Theory Right.

"She may have killed herself," said the detective.

"How could she hit herself on the head hard enough to cause death?" asked the lawyer.

"That wound may have been caused by a bullet," said Pearce. "Remove the top of the skull and see if you find a bullet," he advised.

This was done.

The bullet was found.

ITTA BENA, MISS., Oct. 16.—G. R. James shot and killed Walter McKel Daniel at Quito, three miles south of Itta Bena. Both parties were prominent in this section, and were partners in business. They had disagreed as to business matters. The grievances were thought settled.

James was quickly removed to Greenwood, Miss., to prevent trouble.

JUDGE REPRIMANDS JURY.

ANNISTON, ALA., Oct. 16.—"I consider this verdict a disgrace to the county," said Judge Thomas W. Coleman to-day in the City Court to the jury trying William Pettus for the alleged assault with intent to murder W. A. Smith.

The jury had acquitted Pettus.

HOBSON REITERATES CHARGE.

Congressman Richmond P. Hobson, of Alabama, was in Atlanta long enough Thursday to eat lunch and fire a mighty broadside at Congressman Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, amplifying on his charges that the tariff maker is a "tool of Wall street."

Exposition To Be Held in Corridors of the State Capitol in December.

The dates for the annual Georgia Corn Show, under the auspices of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, were announced Thursday morning. The big exposition will be held in the corridors of the Capitol, opening December 2 and closing December 5.

The premium list, enumerating the prizes offered to the members of the Boys' Corn Clubs and to the Girls' Canning Clubs, is being prepared, and will be issued next week.

Members of the Corn Show Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which has the exhibition in charge, declare that more enthusiasm is being shown throughout Georgia than ever before. Indications are that more than 1,000 boys and between 200 and 300 girls, members of the clubs, will be in Atlanta during the show.

Arrangements for amusements to enliven the show are being made, under the direction of H. C. Hastings, chairman. It is planned to have an agricultural moving picture show. The parade of boy scouts, corn show boys and militia, which attracted so much attention last year, probably will be repeated.

The rivalry among the members of the Girls' Clubs has been increased by the announcement from Washington that fifteen Southern girls, one of them the winner of the grand prize at the Atlanta show, will be given a trip to Washington under the auspices of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The trip will be made after the Georgia show, and on December 11 a conference will be held at the department headquarters in Washington, which is expected to be a great aid to the girls in their work. The girls are to be chaperoned to Washington by the State agent for the canning clubs, Miss Mary E. Creswell, State agent for Georgia, will probably accompany the lucky Georgia girls.

SAYS HE PAID FOR DIVORCE.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—The assertion that young Charlemagne Tower, Jr., son of the former Ambassador to Germany, insisted upon paying for her divorce, so that she could become his wife, was made to-day by Georgianna Burdick Tower, the young woman who is suing Charlemagne Tower, Sr., for the alleged alienation of the affections of his son.

Young Tower not only signed a marriage agreement, the plaintiff said, but he also gave her a wedding ring.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Two million dollars in gold which went to the bottom of San Francisco Bay with the steamer Rio de Janeiro in 1901 is to be the quest of a German inventor who has a diving apparatus which he says will enable him to reach a depth of 600 feet.

Yesterday he tested his device here, going to the bottom of the bay in more than 100 feet of water and remaining down an hour.

ALDRICH ATTACKS BILL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, attacked the Wilson administration currency bill now before Congress, which he declared embodied the theories of William J. Bryan.

He denounced the bill as unsound, socialistic and revolutionary, characterizing it as "an endeavor to secure by partisan legislation the triumph of the doctrines and principles which have received the repeated condemnation of the American people at the polls."

26 DIE WHEN BALLOON BURSTS IN AIR

DRIGIBLE FALLS OUT OF THE SKY

Germany Crushed by Wreck of Greatest Vessel of Empire's Aerial Fleet.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Twenty-seven aerial sailors and officers of the Imperial Ministry of Marine were killed and three other men were fatally wounded when the new admiralty dirigible balloon L-2, the biggest airship in the world, exploded 3,000 feet above the Johannisthal Aerodrome today.

The tragedy, following so closely after the loss of a sister airship, the L-1, which was wrecked over the North Sea in September with a loss of thirteen lives, created consternation throughout Germany.

Among the 30 persons on board the dirigible were the Admiralty Trial Board, headed by Commander Bernische, Commander Freye and Captain Gluth.

Among the injured was Baron Von Biele, of the Queen Augusta Grenadier Guards, who was making the flight as a guest of the admiralty trial board.

Spark Caused Explosion.

An investigation showed the explosion was due to an electric spark igniting the benzine which was carried on board. The victims were either burned to death or suffocated. So terrible were the injuries of the four wounded men that they begged to be shot.

The commander of the airship, Captain Freye, was a former aide-de-camp to Prince Adalbert, son of Emperor William.

The L-2 was equipped for war, carrying guns on board.
The destruction of the L-2 leaves Germany without a naval aerial fleet. The disaster, which adds another to the long string of aerial tragedies attending dirigible ballooning in Germany, came just at the time when a commission from the admiralty was testing the balloon preparatory to taking her over.

A number of government officials witnessed the disaster to-day at Johannisthal. Those who were watching the great cigar-shaped bag through long range field glasses saw a sudden puff of smoke, then the great flame of the balloon crumpled up. For a minute the wreckage hung suspended in midair, then began to fall. Gaining momentum every second the wrecked dirigible fell like a shot and struck the earth with a crash that echoed throughout the big aerodrome. While dropping pieces of wreckage and the bodies of some of the victims could be seen falling from the motors.

Soldiers Search Wreckage.

Soldiers rushed to the spot where the balloon had alighted and began tearing at the wreckage, although all knew that no man on board could survive such a disaster.

The L-2 was completed in September almost at the same time that her sister ship plunged into the North Sea in a gale. She was a giant in size, being 487 feet long and 50 feet wide in the middle. Three cars were attached to the bag, and she was propelled by motors capable of working up a speed of 45 miles an hour.

The L-2 was the last word in aerial construction, and the military authorities expected great things of her.

It is now predicted that, in consequence of the accidents attending the use of army dirigibles, the German government will resort to aeroplanes as a means of aerial offense and defense.

MAY BE GIRL'S SLAYER.

In the negro who gave his name as John Henry, after he had shot at two men and committed four robberies, the Atlanta police Friday expressed the belief that they have the man who slew Ida Leegson, an art student, in Chicago, and have solved a mystery which has puzzled the police of that city since it was committed October 4.

The negro, who was arrested as the result of a clever ruse by Miss Nellie Abshire, a nurse whose room in the Georgia Baptist Hospital dormitory he had heard of how she was murdered of this man, hunted for the murder of Mrs. Leegson in the Northern city. The negro admitted to Chief of Detectives Lantford that he was in Chicago at the time the art student was murdered. He also stated that he had entered, tallies with the description, but declared that his knowledge came only through reading newspapers.

SPENCER TO DENY SLAYING.

WHEATON, ILL., Oct. 17.—Angered because he thought the scheme had been formed to send him to the penitentiary instead of to the gallows, Henry Spencer, confessed slayer of 25 persons, to-day declared he would not plead guilty to the charge of murdering Mrs. William Allison Raxroat, the Chicago tango teacher. "I will plead not guilty," he said, "and I will be my own attorney."

ENDS HIS LIFE.

COLCHESTER, CONN., Oct. 17.—N. retired, committed suicide by shooting this morning. His act was caused, it was believed, by ill-health, on account of which he had been in the navy three years ago. He was 40 years old.

GOVERNOR SULZER, FORCED FROM OFFICE

SULZER OUSTED; GLYNN GOVERNOR

Chief Executive of State of New York Is Removed From Office.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—William Sulzer was removed formally from the office of Governor of New York at 12:50 o'clock to-day by the votes of more than two-thirds of the high court of impeachment which convicted him of falsifying a public record, of perjury and of attempting to induce another to commit perjury.

The vote was 43 to 12.
Chief Justice Cullen and Senator Wende did not vote.

There was bitter denunciation of the Governor in the closing hours, when the court proceeded to dismiss articles 5, 7 and 8. Dishonor was heaped upon the head of the convicted official, and in the disgracing of Sulzer even Chief Judge Cullen, who had steadily voted to acquit him, joined with a scathing comment upon the dishonorable practice of the Governor.

At the time of the actual judgment Martin H. Glynn became Governor by virtue of succession from the office of Lieutenant Governor, and Robert C. Wagner, President of the Senate, became Lieutenant Governor. Glynn formally was sworn in as the forty-third Governor of the State of New York this afternoon by Chief Judge Cullen, of the Court of Appeals.

"This is not an occasion for exultation. I have no such feeling," said Governor Glynn. "To me it is an occasion of solemnity mixed with sadness. I am charged with the duties of Governor, not through any act nor desire of mine, but because the law which I am sworn to uphold imposes the obligation upon me under the distressing circumstances of the situation that have arisen."

Speculation as to what revelations, if any, Sulzer will make when out of office took the place of the impeachment in the minds of the political workers.

Further Action Talked.

Purely collateral was other speculation as to whether or not an attempt would be made to bring criminal prosecution against Sulzer.

The conviction on the charge of perjury left an indelible offense fully sustained by the court of last resort and made the way easy for indictment if one were to be pressed.

The court voted unanimously not to disqualify the Governor from future offices of trust.

The indication was that no further action would be taken against the former Governor unless he made such charges against Tammany workers as demanded a war of extermination.

The court voted first to-day on article 5, which charged him with having prevented Frederick L. Cowell from testifying. The unanimous vote was not guilty.

Then article 6 was read and "not guilty" voted in short order. The bribery charge had received its first blow at the beginning of the court's work when Chief Judge Cullen stopped evidence bearing upon the question of bribery long enough to point out the legal shortcomings of the article.

Sulzer's Statement.

Articles 7 and 8, charging that the Governor used the authority and influence of his office to effect legislation on his direct primary bill and other bills, and with attempting to influence the price of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, were put through the same rapid-fire system of dismissal.

The Senators voted "not guilty" just as fast as they could be called.

Still in seclusion Sulzer nursed a statement, bitter, vindictive and stinging in its terms. To-day it was promised as the closing chapter of his career at the Executive Mansion.

Governor Sulzer and Mrs. Sulzer will leave Sunday afternoon for the Adirondacks, where they will spend some time.

TEARS GOWN OFF WIFE.

MOBILE, Oct. 17.—Judge David H. Eddington in Police Court to-day ruled that a man had a right to tear immodest clothes off his wife if he could prove that he had furnished the funds to purchase the raiment, even though it were imported from Paris. S. Ledbetter slashed a diaphanous gown from his wife last night on the streets. A policeman took Ledbetter in charge. This morning he entered a plea that he had given his wife the money for the dress and he had a right to destroy it. The court sustained his contention.

PRINCE LIKES FOOTBALL.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Prince Madikane Q. Cele, of Zululand, South Africa, after his marriage next Monday to Miss Julia Smith, an American girl, is to return to his native land and introduce American football among his subjects. They are to be married at the Hampton Institute in Virginia.

Survives Suicide Pact; Preacher Confesses Faces Slaying Charge He Is Husband of 4

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—A charge of murder will be made against William C. Ellis, a wealthy leather manufacturer, of Cincinnati, who was found with his dead wife in a room at the Sherman House after he had tried to commit suicide.

It is believed that his wound, made this Sunday, and the three bullets he fired into his body in an effort to die, will not prove fatal.

DEMANDS PROTECTORATE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Representative Sherwood, of Ohio, to-day demanded in the House that the United States join with other powers in establishing a protectorate over Mexico for the restoration of peace. He argued that such action would not violate the Monroe Doctrine, and said he had no criticism to make of President Wilson's policy.

"The humane policy of President Wilson in using moral suasion and soft glove diplomacy in the settlement of the Mexican question," said Sherwood, "has not pacified Mexico nor prevented the usurping President Huerta from assuming all the functions of government. He has enforced his official ukase to dissolve the Congress by sending the supreme representatives of the people to prison. This autocratic military rule, the joint product of treachery, conspiracy and assassination, calls upon the Government of the United States for active intervention for the restoration of the republic."

PLOT TO KILL HUERTA.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17.—Troops guarded every avenue of approach to the national palace to-day following the discovery of a plot to assassinate General Huerta. Guards were placed about the gates last night, but to-day the military cordon was extended half a mile from the building.

Reports that Huerta would resign within 48 hours persisted to-day. It was rumored he had been warned that if he did not resign the army would revolt and General Blanquet, Minister of War, would seize the reins and execute Huerta as a traitor.

RATE INCREASE HALTED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Advances in class and commodity rates over the Atlantic Coast Line from points in Virginia to Atlanta, Ga., were suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day until January 23.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Kurt Mueller, a former Lutheran minister, in his cell in the Brighton Park police station, to-day confessed that he is the husband of four women, none dead or divorced.

An expression of opinion was asked of the father of six children. He admitted that he served a term in the State penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for bigamy, and after his release married his fourth wife.

SCORE DARING COSTUMES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The X-ray and silk skirt, the tango and the turkey trot, and the mad hunt for joy on the part of the Americans were denounced to-day by some of the most prominent Episcopal bishops in the United States in conference here.

An expression of opinion was asked of eight bishops. Six openly flayed the practice of American women of wearing daring gowns and also the frenzied pursuit of pleasure in which all America seems engaged.

One bishop, Dr. F. S. Spaulding, of Utah, declared he never had seen a silk skirt, while Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, of Kyoto, Japan, was the only one of eight bishops who failed to condemn women who wear exaggerated costumes.

SAVED FROM STARVING.

LAREDO, TEXAS, Oct. 17.—Mexican Federal soldiers rescued the 175 American refugees en route from Torreon to Tampico, from starvation and they are on a special train, according to advices received here to-day. The Americans had been missing for some time and the search for them was instituted upon the request of United States Consul General Hanna, of Monterey.

HIT BY DAUGHTER'S SLAYING.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., Oct. 17.—Dorothy Virginia Ainsworth, testifying in the trial of her mother, Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, on the charge of having murdered her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, said

TRAILED BY BULLDOG.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—Lorenz Wagner, of West Liberty, seeking a divorce, declares his wife used a bulldog to hunt him. He says the dog often forced him to climb a tree and stay there all night.

No Hope for the Currency Bill at This Session

LONG DEBATE SURE TO BRING REPORT

Measure Not Likely to Leave Hands of Committee Before November 1.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—All hope of enacting the Administration currency bill into law at the present session of Congress was given up to-day. Confidential reports made to the President set November 1 as the earliest possible date upon which a report on the measure could be looked for from the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

At the same time was stated that six weeks of debate would be consumed by the Senate before the bill could be passed on to the conferees of the Senate and House.

The President was assured that there was no disposition on the part of legislators of the Upper House to hold out against the Administration. Republican members of the Banking and Currency Committee have been placated by the Chief Executive's declaration that he had no intention of making the pending bill a strictly party measure, and they, too, will join in signing a report so as to facilitate matters.

A suggestion has been made that the Banking and Currency Committee hold night hearings beginning next week in order to hurry along a report.

The opening of direct negotiations with Republican Senators, it is understood, was decided upon by the President because of suggestions from outside sources that they were endeavoring to delay action in committee.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, gave notice in the Senate to-day that he would address that body Wednesday on the necessity of immediate action on currency legislation. No session of the committee was held to-day.

A proposal that Federal reserve banks provided for in the pending bill shall have power to issue travelers' checks was made to the Senate to-day in a petition presented by Senator Kern.

CERTAIN BILL WILL PASS.

Senator Hoke Smith, home for a week's respite from his work in Congress, predicted Saturday night an easy victory for the currency measure of which he has been an active advocate. He thought that it ought to reach the Senate from the Banking and Currency Committee about November 10.

Senator Smith said that the supporters of the measure had determined that there should be no interference with the legislative progress of the bill as it was regarded as the most important measure remaining to be considered by the present Congress. Any attempt to obtain precedence for another bill will meet with a prompt resistance that already has been successful in keeping the path clear for the passage of the measure, the Senator declared.

SLAUGHTER IS PREDICTED.

Special Cable to The American.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The general belief in Russia is that, regardless of what disposition is made of Mendel Beilis, on trial at Kieff for "ritual murder," the "Black Hundred" will ordain a pogrom at the conclusion of the case, and the Jews are fearful of the outcome, according to The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times.

"Examination of the witnesses will take at least two weeks more," says the dispatch. "So far all the evidence which has been material against Beilis could be put on the point of a pin."

"This is not the trial of Beilis; it is undoubtedly the last fight for existence on the part of the innermost powers of the old reactionary party. It is daily becoming clearer that under the form of the law a great political and social question is being fought."

WILBURN TO GO TO TRIAL.

MACON, Oct. 18.—The intense feeling over the killing of James King, wealthy Jones County planter, which at once threatened to result in violence on the part of the citizens, has blazed forth again with the approach of the trial of Nick Wilburn, the stalwart and good-looking farm hand who is accused of the murder for the love of King's wife.

Wilburn will go on trial next Wednesday in Gray, Jones County. He confessed to the killing soon after he was suspected and placed under arrest last December. His only defense at the time was that he was goaded to do it by Mrs. King, with whom he had been infatuated for months. Whether this will remain his sole defense at the trial his attorneys, John R. Cooper, will not say.

TESTIFY ABOUT ALLEGED BRIBE.

KIEFF, Oct. 18.—The entire testimony to to-day's session of the trial of Mendel Beilis, charged with the "ritual murder" of Andrew Yuschinsky, concerned the alleged $20,000 bribe offered Vera Cherberyak, a recent witness. No testimony bearing on the guilt or innocence of Beilis was offered.

A number of police officers were placed on the witness stand to refute the Cherberyak woman's testimony that she had been offered the bribe to confess that she was an accessory to the murder and to implicate seven others.

MENDEL BEILIS, on the right, the Jew charged with slaying Andrer Yuschinsky, 13 years old, as a ritual blood sacrifice, being taken to court in the trial at Kier, Russia. His case has stirred the world.

Flood of Argentine Beef Coming to U. S.

4 Women Killed in Auto-Train Collision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Active preparations by Argentina to take immediate advantage of the free beef clause of the new tariff law and send the United States large shipments of beef were reported to-day by Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, who has returned from South America.

Argentina and Uruguay, Dr. Melvin added, have good meat inspection laws.

WATSON TRIAL IS SET.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 18.—Thomas E. Watson, editor of The Jeffersonian publication, former nominee of the Populist party for President of the United States, running mate of William J. Bryan on the same party ticket in 1896, lawyer and author, will be placed on trial here Monday upon a Federal indictment charging him with sending obscene matter through the mails.

The Government's case will be handled by United States District Attorney Alexander Akerman, of Macon, assisted by Arthur H. Addington, of the Federal Department of Justice. Mr. Watson will be defended by Colonel Guyt McLendon, of Atlanta, former Railroad Commissioner, candidate for Governor and lifelong friend of the accused. Judge Rufus E. Foster will preside, Judge Spear being disqualified.

ATKINSON QUITS.

General regret is expressed in Atlanta railroad circles over the retirement of H. M. Atkinson from the receivership of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, which he organized and built, and of which he has been joint receiver since 1908. The policies which Mr. Atkinson has pursued in developing the road to its present value will be continued, it is understood, by E. T. Lamb, who, after November 1, will be sole receiver of the properties of the company.

TO REFORM SAVAGES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Lord-Lard Spencer, society leader of New York and Newport, will forsake the drawing room and the card table for the wild jungles of the Philippines, there to make good citizens of the savage Moros by force of moral suasion.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY.

Governor Slaton issued a proclamation Saturday designating Sunday, December 7, as "Tuberculosis Day" in Georgia.

LA PORTE, IND., Oct. 18.—Four women were killed and Edwin Schurz, treasurer of the Hobart M. Cable Piano Company, was seriously injured late to-day when Schurz's automobile was struck by a Pere Marquette freight train. The dead: Mrs. Edwin Schurz, Mrs. Fannie Heinze, Mrs. Carlton Schaffer, LaPorte; Mrs. William Bruce, Washington, D. C.

The women were the guests of Mrs. Schurz.

Schurz declared he did not see or hear the approaching train until the machine was on the track.

SHE DESTROYED MILLIONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—After having destroyed something like $1,500,000 in real money since May, 1912, Miss Louise Lester, of the Treasury Department, still likes her job, although it is a "messy" one, and hopes to keep at it for some time to come. Miss Lester is a member of the Committee on the Destruction of Mutilated Money.

"While my work is somewhat 'messy,'" she says, "it is interesting and does not grow monotonous. It's really fun."

TO DO FAIR WORK.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Although Great Britain will have no official representation at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, she will be brought into prominence by the work of the English artist, Frank Brangwyn, who has been commissioned to execute the mural decorations for several courts in the fine arts section.

NOBLE BRIGAND ARRESTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The police have arrested at Soukhoum Kaleb Prince Ibrahim, the chief of a band of brigands who for many years has terrorized the Caucasian region. The Prince is the descendant of an ancient family of high repute.

FLIES WITH 280-POUND WOMAN.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emma Griffiths, weighing 280 pounds, wife of a Welsh clergyman, said to-day she never enjoyed anything more than her biplane flight at the Hendon aerodrome. She is probably the heaviest passenger ever carried in a flight.

VISIT OF STORK IS EXPECTED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The departure of the Czarina's physician for Lydia to join the imperial family has revived the rumor that a visit of the stork is expected in the royal household.

WOMEN RALLY TO MRS. PANKHURST

Suffragettes All Over United States Are Aroused in Her Behalf.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Over telegraph wires that fairly sizzle with the heated expression of angry women and in mail pouches of unusual bulk, come messages to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, as she sits in detention on Ellis Island, from every part of the United States. The messages tell her that American women are her friends, and are indignant at the treatment she is receiving at the hands of the immigration authorities.

It is significant that the wrathful communications bear that element of militancy of which Mrs. Pankhurst is the apostle, and against which American suffragists until now have inveighed. The suffragists everywhere in the United States are aroused, it seems.

Mrs. Pankhurst is in the keeping of immigration officers, and is really a prisoner. The room in which she is held, while comfortable, is in the strict sense of the word a prison cell. Cipriano Castro was held in the same room, when the United States forbade him entrance. So was Miss Marie Lloyd, the British music hall singer, more recently.

The immigration authorities, after a short conference to-day, decided that some of the crimes of which she had been convicted in England did involve moral turpitude. And thus the protest of American suffragists is the same revolt against authority which Mrs. Pankhurst has preached in England. By her imprisonment she has converted many to her side. So the expressions of her myriad messages conclude.

It is understood that resolutions of every degree of anger have been telegraphed to President Wilson, Secretary of Labor Wilson, Immigration Commissioner Caminetti and Senators, besides personal messages requesting that the order be put aside that were sent to Washington and New York officials.

Mrs. Pankhurst arrived to-day on La Providence with two trunks, a hatbox, a suitcase and a Gladstone bag. Her face was ruddy, and apparently she was in excellent health and spirits. Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr accompanied her and is with her on Ellis Island.

Mrs. Pankhurst told the examining board of the militant struggle in England and her part in it. She did this in a manner which suggested neither egotism nor self-glorification.

"Will you go on a hunger strike now?" she was asked as she left the hearing.

"I never decide anything until the moment comes when decision must be made," she answered. "I do not expect to be detained. I am rather shocked. If I am guilty of moral turpitude—a charge of which the House of Commons declared me and my associates not guilty—wherein you Americans glorify the leaders of the Boston tea party—why were Charles Stewart Parnell, Michael Davitt and John Redmond allowed to enter and proselyte in the name of the Irish cause?"

"Is it because they are men? If so, I am meeting here in this land of freedom the same element of unfairness that aroused the suffragettes in my country to militancy."

This is Mrs. Pankhurst's third visit to the United States. Since her last trip she has changed little. Her face has become graver and her gray eyes have grown a bit less trustful. Her imprisonment and hunger strikes have left but little stamp upon her face.

She is a mite of a person. She weighs scarcely 105 pounds and stands 5 feet 1 inch. She was clad in an olive-green broadcloth dress, a dark silk blouse, a full length seal skin coat and a good looking triangular-shaped blue hat ornamented by a black ostrich plume.

OPPOSES LATE RESPITES.

Governor Slaton, in a statement published Saturday, announced himself opposed to the policy of granting respites to men sentenced to be executed unless the application for the stay of execution has been acted upon favorably by the prison board.

Whenever he receives such applications in the future, the Governor announced, he will turn them over to the Prison Commission for action. The objection to the system of eleventh-hour respites lies in the fact that many of them are made merely to obtain a stay of execution and without just cause or substantial basis.

POSTPONES HEARING.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 18.—Judge Henry C. Hammond to-day postponed until early in November the hearing of arguments on the motion for a new trial for Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, convicted of the murder of Judge Walter Godbee, her former husband, and his young wife, Mrs. Florence Boyer Godbee.

Locked Doors Guard Witness Who Declares Leo Frank Innocent

FISHER RECAPS HE WAS MENACED

Accuses Prominent Atlanta Man of Slaying Little Girl in Pencil Factory.

All night long headquarters detectives scouted over the Grant Building in an effort to lay hands on I. W. Fisher, now of Birmingham, formerly of Atlanta, who says Leo Frank did not kill Mary Phagan and accuses another Atlanta man of the crime, and who was held securely under lock and key in the offices of Luther Rosser on the seventh floor.

Fisher arrived in Atlanta Sunday morning. He was taken immediately to the offices of Messrs. Rosser and Arnold. He is temporarily, though voluntarily, under confinement.

His story exonerates Leo Frank, convicted of the Phagan murder, and accuses another Atlanta man whose name is being withheld. Attorneys Rosser and Arnold, they say, are investigating this man of their own accord. They declare they have asked headquarters detectives to assist them in the investigation. The headquarters men told the attorneys that they would use their own discretion in the matter. No investigation along that line has been put forth by the detectives up to date.

Fisher says—though Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold—that the rumor is false that he witnessed the murder. His story is to the effect that the man he accuses, who is a former acquaintance, came to him on the morning of the crime and told of an engagement he was alleged to have had with Mary Phagan at the pencil factory.

Later in the day, Fisher says, the man came to him, and after confiding his secret, gave Fisher an amount of money on which to leave the city, advising Fisher to depart immediately. Fisher says he acted accordingly, going to Tennessee and later to Birmingham.

He also states that the accused man has sent him liberal sums of money at intervals, always with the admonition to keep mum. Fisher's explanation of his confession is that the secret weighed so heavily on his conscience that he could hold it no longer, deciding last Friday night to pour it into the willing ears of Chief of Police Bodeker in Birmingham.

Both Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser say the man named in Fisher's story is still in Atlanta, that he has lived here all his life and is a man with a wife and two children. He is a man of moderate means, they say, who lives in a respectable neighborhood. They would not reveal his occupation or even the section of the city in which he resides.

Fisher's connection with the famous case has created a clash between Frank's defense and the detective department that is yet to be equaled. Late Sunday night Detectives Waggoner, Coker, Garner and John Starnes, the latter of whom is one of the two prosecutors in the Frank trial, frankly told the two attorneys that they intended holding the Birmingham man as a material witness so that they might investigate him thoroughly. "That is, if they could lay hands on him."

Mr. Arnold and Mr. Rosser replied fully as frankly that the headquarters men had no opportunity to lay hands on Fisher, and that they intended keeping him locked up in order to keep the detectives from making him a real prisoner. Both men intimated that, before they would allow Fisher to fall into the hands of the detectives, they would, of their own accord, issue a warrant against him and have him jailed on their responsibility.

STEPHENS TABLET UNVEILED.
CRAWFORDVILLE, GA., Oct. 19.—With beautiful and impressive ceremonies, the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, on Sunday afternoon unveiled their marble tablet over the grave of Alexander Hamilton Stephens, at his old home, "Liberty Hall," in Crawfordville of Colonel J. P. Burke, whose idea it was to dedicate this tablet to the memory of the great patriot and statesman, the Old Guard, Company L, of the Fifth Regiment, which is the active company of the Old Guard, and the Red Men's Drum and Bugle Corps, went to Crawfordville by special train Sunday morning.

GERARD HOUSE HUNTING.
BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the American Ambassador to Germany, has arrived here and finds the Ambassador still house hunting, with slight prospects of obtaining a suitable building for the social and representative requirements of the embassy. Mrs. Gerard will go to Paris to-morrow to join her sister, Countess Sigray.

AIR FLIGHTS HALTED.
BRUSSELS, Oct. 19.—Because of the disaster to the Zeppelin dirigible balloon the Minister of War has countermanded all the proposed ascents of the military dirigibles. Zeppelin and Belge, for this year, have decided to suspend and probably will abandon the intended purchase of a new dirigible of the German rigid type.

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST.
HURST, famous English militant suffragette, ordered deported by the United States immigration authorities, and then permitted to enter this country.

Fleeing Nuns Tell Of Mexic Horrors

GALVESTON, TEXAS, Oct. 20.—Three hundred and sixty-one refugees from Mexico, most of them destitute and a number of them victims of the long, disastrous siege and subsequent capture of Torreon by the constitutionalists, reached the United States to-day, coming to Galveston by steamer from Tampico.

They told stories of guerrilla warfare between the Mexican factions, of robbery and cruelty, and thirty-three Catholic nuns, driven at midnight under fire from their convent, told of hospitals put to the torch, and men killed for the gold in their teeth.

Many of the refugees braved overland journeys of hardships and danger to reach the coast, while others waited weeks and months for train service to escape the country.

CORN PRIZES AWARDED.
THOMASVILLE, GA., Oct. 19.—The committee in charge of the awarding of the prizes for the contest of the Boys' Corn Club and the Girls' Canning Club of Thomas County have made their decisions.

The highest number of bushels was 91.25, made by Ralph Newton; the next highest was 84.5, by Aubrey Webb. The greatest net profit was $55.83 by Ralph Newton, and the next $45.91 by Aubrey Webb. The best ears were shown by Herbert Shepard, whose percentage out of a possible twenty was 19.25.

The first prize, a scholarship at the Agricultural School at Athens, was won by Ralph Newton, with a percentage of 85 out of a possible 100. The second prize, a free trip to the corn show in Atlanta, went to Aubrey Webb, his percentage being 85.5. Others receiving prizes were Elmo Duran, Harvey Chastain, S. R. Robinson, Alva Martin and Herbert Shepard.

In the awarding of the Girls' Canning Club prizes, Grace Newton won the first, a scholarship in the Agricultural School at Athens. Hazel Smith won the second prize, a trip to the State Fair at Macon. Others winning prizes were Jessie Monroe, Donna Reichert and Della Handcock.

56 KILLED BY DYNAMITE.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—Fifty-six federalists have been killed by the dynamiting of a troop train a short distance north of Saltillo, according to information from a reliable source. The troops were proceeding from Mexico City to Torreon. There were 1,500 men in the train, which ran over a rebel mine. The locomotive and two coaches were destroyed. The government authorities disregarded a warning, it is said, to send the train over another route.

15 PERSONS INJURED.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—Fifteen persons were injured, two perhaps fatally, when the "Midnight Special" of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, bound from Chicago to St. Louis, was wrecked at Alton, Ill., early this morning.

The lives of thirty-three other passengers in all probability were saved by a steel cable bracing a telegraph pole, which caught the chief car and prevented it from overturning.

25 SOLDIERS KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Many Are Injured When Cars Fall
Through Mobile and Ohio Trestle.

MERIDIAN, MISS., Oct. 19.—Twenty soldiers were killed and about 100 hurt when a special troop train on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad plunged through a trestle near State Line, Miss., late this afternoon.

The wreck was caused by the engine tender jumping the track about 200 feet from a trestle. The engine was not derailed, and passed over the trestle safely. The tender broke through the trestle, however, and plunged with the baggage car and three coaches to the ground, 25 feet below.

At 9 o'clock to-night sixteen bodies had been taken from the wreckage and Superintendent Pigford said in his report he was sure four more bodies were in the debris, which will not be cleared away for 24 hours.

All were privates and members of the 170th Company, Coast Artillery, except Remsen.

179 Soldiers on Train.

One hundred and seventy-nine soldiers were on board the special train. They were from Fort Morgan and Fort Bananas. They were going to Meridian to participate in the Mississippi-Alabama Joint State Fair. They were under command of Major Taylor, Coast Artillery, U. S. A. The men had been taken to Mobile early Sunday, and at noon their ill-fated special left Mobile.

As a major news of the wreck filtered into Meridian a special relief train bearing physicians and nurses left for the scene. Other trains left from Mobile and Whistler, Ala. When it was learned in Mobile that a train bearing the dead and wounded was bound for that city, another train carrying more doctors and nurses was sent to meet the one bearing the victims.

Men Had No Protection.

As is usual with troop trains, the coaches were well filled, and when the three cars tumbled through the trestle the men had little protection. The dead and injured were entangled in a twisted mass of wreckage, making it difficult to remove dead bodies or rescue the injured.

Because of the confusion, due largely to poor wire communication, the men had little protection. It is uncertain how many of the injured were expected to die or who they were.

The first report of the wreck sent the Meridian Postmaster that twelve had been killed, but soon after it was sent other bodies were found.

Superintendent Pigford is firm in his belief that at least four more bodies are in the wreckage, but until the debris is cleared a final statement of the exact number will not be made. Conductor Pruitt and City Passenger Agent Harvey E. Jones, of Mobile, were badly injured.

SUES FOR WIFE'S LOVE.

ATHENS, Oct. 18.—Attorneys have been employed and the sails set here for one of the most sensational damage cases ever filed in the Federal courts of the State. J. A. Manley, of Alto, has entered suit against John Hood, of Commerce, for $50,000 damages for alienating his wife's affections.

Manley, so the filing papers show, is a subject of Great Britain, 53 years old, and has been married fourteen years. His wife was Miss Sarah McCull and is 20 years younger than he. Manley alleges that during the past summer his wife grew cold and unattractive towards him, and not until it was found that Hood had alienated her affections did he know the cause.

THAW BARES SECRETS.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 18.—Counsel for Harry K. Thaw to-day filed a brief with Governor Peck, giving the so-called "inside facts" of the effort on the part of William Travers Jerome to secure an indictment charging conspiracy against Thaw. The remarkable part of the brief is that it contains information which was necessarily have come from members of the Dutchess County Grand Jury, before whom the indictment was sought.

CHALLENGER KEEL LAID.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The work of laying the keel of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger has been begun and Captain Purser is busy selecting a crew. Sir Thomas has shown his confidence in American sportsmanship by displaying a completed model of the challenger to Captain Barron, of San Francisco, who is now in London in connection with the Panama Exposition.

MURPHY MAY ABDICATE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Charles F. Murphy will abdicate as leader of Tammany Hall as soon as election is over, according to a report from very high authority, and the report caused more gossip in Democratic circles to-day than that of a ship that has been heard in many months.

SEVEN PERSONS HURT.

TIPTON, OHIO, Oct. 19.—Three persons were probably fatally injured, four were seriously hurt and scores were cut and bruised when a south-bound Big Four passenger train was wrecked to-day three miles south of this city.

MRS. PANKHURST RELEASED TO LAND

Order of Deportation Is Revoked
After President Takes Hand in Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Federal Commissioner of Immigration Antonio Caminetti to-day revoked the order of the special board of inquiry deporting Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the famous British suffragette, and directed that she be allowed to enter the country.

Commissioner Caminetti decided that Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted on her own recognizances on these grounds:

1. Because of doubt on the question of moral turpitude.
2. Because she can be prosecuted in the United States courts if she violates the law.
3. Because she can be deported if she violates the law.

Caminetti's decision came at the close of a conference held between high officials to-day to determine whether Mrs. Pankhurst should be allowed to enter the United States or whether she should be deported "as an undesirable alien."

A new precedent in conducting national affairs was set by President Wilson when he in person took up the question of admitting Mrs. Pankhurst. It was the first that the nation's Executive ever had set in judgment in a matter involving the admission of a foreigner barred by the immigration authorities.

SPENCER IN A HURRY.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Henry Spencer, the "hammer man," standing in the Criminal Court at Wheaton this afternoon, pleaded "guilty" to the charge of murdering Mrs. Mildred Allison-Reynold.

He argued with Judge Slusser for an early trial, and continued to insist that he desired to be hanged as expeditiously as possible. His trial will begin November 10.

300 PERSONS SLAIN.

PEKIN, Oct. 18.—Chinese brigands commanded by General Hwang Liang have murdered 300 persons in the Province of Fo-Kien and burned two churches owned by American missionary societies. The American missionaries are still in Fu-Chow, where they took refuge.

The Chinese War Office promised the American Charge d'Affaires, Edward T. Williams, that it would suppress the brigands.

BUTTS BEATS JASPER.

JACKSON, Oct. 20.—Judge Robert T. Daniel, of the First Circuit, has handed down a decision in the tax case between Butts and Jasper Counties, sustaining every contention of Butts County.

Jasper County secured a temporary restraining order, preventing Butts from collecting any of the Central Georgia Power Company taxes, claiming 75 per cent of the total returned in the two counties.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; 3 DEAD.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Samuel Jerolman, wife of a prominent flour commission merchant, and her two children were killed instantly, and Jerolman and William Harlow, his chauffeur, were injured fatally to-night when an automobile in which they were riding was demolished by a Frisco passenger train.

WILSON FEELS FINE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson feels "fine." He said so himself to-day in answer to the rumor abroad that he was in ill health due to his refusal to attend the target practice off the Virginia coast. The first reason for staying in Washington, the President said, was the press of Federal business.

DREDGE ENGINEER KILLED.

MOBILE, Oct. 18.—J. F. Fowler, of Meridian, Miss., an engineer on the Government dredge Demopolis, was killed here to-night when a mud bucket fell from its fastenings, crushing him. He lived two hours after being hurt.

WIRELESS LAW IS INVOKED.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 18.—For sailing from port with a crew of over 49 men without being equipped with radiograph instrument Collector David C. Barrow to-day made a case against the tramp steamer Hatumet that sailed yesterday.

STOLEN MADONNA FOUND.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Pinturo's masterpiece, "Virgin and Child," recently stolen from an Italian church, has been seized packed in a trunk in Charing Cross Station, London.

POLICEMAN JAILS OWN SON.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 18.—Walter M. Fleming, who was arrested by his father, a patrolman, began to-day the serving of a 90-day sentence for striking his mother.

LADIES $1000 Reward. I positively guarantee my great, successful "Mystery" Campaign. I want to reward the lady who will send me a letter telling me the name of the man who is the most successful in the world. I will send her $1000.00. Write to me at once. Dr. A. I. Smith, 1000 Broadway, N. Y. City.

$6,000,000 FOR GEORGIA IN COTTON'S RISE

PRICE OF STAPLE IS UP 51 POINTS

October Contracts Take Big Jump on Reports of Killing Cold
Over the Belt.

Reports of a killing frost over the belt caused a sensational rise in cotton prices Monday.

October contracts jumped 51 points, and closed at 14.09 cents in New York. The jump means $6,375,000 to Georgia, which is $2.37 for every man, woman and child, white and negro, in the State.

Cotton prices had been depressed recently on reports which indicated that earlier tales of damage in the West were exaggerated, and because of constantly swelling estimates of the Eastern crop. The decline had been aided by the fact that the good weather enabled the farmers to gather, gin and market the crop. The flood of actual cotton on the market was heavier than buyers could digest immediately.

Everyone looked for a frost of average date, which would have permitted the bolls at the top of the cotton plant to mature and yield staple.

The frost of Sunday night and Monday probably means that this top crop will be destroyed, cutting the yield short hundreds of thousands of bales from what was expected.

It was this news which gave the bulls ammunition for their raid, sending quotations skyward.

Conservative experts have said 2,500,000 bales was a very low estimate of Georgia's crop. In this case, an advance of 51 points means a gain of $2.55 in price from recent levels, or $6,375,000 for the State.

The Georgia crop may be shortened somewhat by the early frost, but it will not suffer as heavily as some of the other States.

In fact, the Commissioner of Agriculture has maintained all along that Georgia had almost no prospect of a "top crop."

SNOW IN ATLANTA.

Atlanta tipped over its early snow record this morning just before 7 o'clock, when a whirling flurry of flakes swooped down out of a suddenly clouded sky which cleared almost at once, while the snow, after falling quite briskly for a quarter of an hour, disappeared from the air and the pavements.

The only other snow that has fallen in Atlanta as early as October in the last 34 years was that of October 28, 1910. The snow this morning breaks that record by nearly a week. The two early snows were about the same in texture and quantity of flakes.

BLIZZARD IN GEORGIA.

CLARKESVILLE, Oct. 20.—At seven minutes past 9 o'clock this morning Clarkesville was visited by a snowstorm, the earliest on record in this region in the last 20 years.

The snow melted as fast as it fell. Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock there was a thunderstorm, followed by heavy rain. A high cold wind blew all night and to-day.

It is growing colder.

SNOW ENDS LONG DROUGHT.

LEXINGTON, KY., Oct. 20.—Snow fell throughout Kentucky to-day, but soon melted, relieving the worst drought ever known in the State. Many towns were actually without water for drinking purposes and in constant danger from fire. This was particularly the condition in the larger towns of Central Kentucky. The damage to crops by the drought is incalculable.

WIFE SAYS HE FLIRTED.

Charging that her husband "flirted with a girl" and took her to the picture show, Mrs. Rosa Walker Monday morning filed suit for divorce and permanent alimony against Adolph L. Walker, manager of Robins Hair Dressing Company. The Walkers live at 70 Whitehall street.

The petitioner declares also that her husband drank to excess and carried whiskey with him. "One day this summer," she says in the petition, "he flirted with a girl who was employed across the street from his place of business. He also took this girl to the moving picture shows."

Mrs. Walker asks for the custody of their child, in addition to alimony.

MRS. PANKHURST SPEAKS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the English suffragists, was set free by the immigration authorities to-day as soon as they received official notification that Commissioner General Caminetti had found her not guilty of "moral turpitude" and within an hour she made a public speech before a crowd that thronged the Battery.

When the ovation at the Battery had ended, Mrs. Pankhurst thanked the crowd for the reception it had given her, and then talked at length with the newspaper men.

STAY-AT-HOME SUE.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.—Men have been brought into the divorce court because they preferred the gas "White Way" to wife's company at night. But Cincinnati has a man who is called to explain why his wife should not be given a divorce because he stayed at home at night.

John Hopping prefers to stay at home nights and enjoy the comforts of the home he provided for his wife. She thinks different and filed suit for divorce on the grounds that he thus preferred to pass his time in the evenings.

MRS. KING FEARFULLY WAITS TRIAL OF HUSBAND'S SLAYER

MRS. KATHERINE KING.

MACON, GA., Oct. 20.—Katherine King anxiously awaits the outcome of the trial of Nick Wilburn, who is scheduled to go to trial Wednesday for the killing of her husband, James King, one of the most prominent farmers in Jones County.

Charged and indicted as an accessory before the fact, Mrs. King bitterly denounces Wilburn, who charges that he was goaded into the killing by her. Surrounded by her three children, Mrs. King fearfully waits for her own ordeal.

Her friends and attorneys have stood loyally by her and on every hand there is the strongest denial of her guilt. Immediately after the killing, Wilburn admitted his guilt, but charged he was urged to it by his victim's wife. It was reported that she admitted this and feeling was intense. A change in sentiment, however, has been experienced with her continued bitter denials of the charge.

Feeling has thus been doubly wrought up against Wilburn by the charge of the friends of Mrs. King, an innocent woman. The trial probably will be postponed from Wednesday of this week until Wednesday, October 25. Attorneys John R. Cooper and W. D. McNair, who represent Wilburn and Mrs. King, respectively, have engagements in the Supreme Court on Tuesday, and for that reason they have applied to Judge Park for continuance.

WANT PENSIONS PAID.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A plan to have $60,000,000 derived from the civil war cotton tax now in the Treasury diverted to pensions for Confederate soldiers and their widows and thus relieve the Southern States of their pension burden, was presented to Senator Russell, of Louisiana, by General Bennett H. Young, Commander of the United Confederate Veterans to-day.

Many years ago the Supreme Court of the United States decided that this tax had been collected illegally.

$100,000 Asked for Cotton Experiments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Representative Walker, of Georgia, introduced a bill in the House to-day appropriating $100,000 to permit the Government to experiment in the growing of sea island cotton in the Southern States.

GET $25,000 A YEAR.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20.—From Chicago came the announcement to-day of the employment of the firm of Hadley, Cooper, Neel & Wilson, of Kansas City, as counsel to represent all the railroads west of the Mississippi River in the physical valuation of the railroads that has been undertaken by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The fee to be paid the Kansas City lawyers is $25,000 a year, or $125,000 in all, as it is estimated the work of valuing the railroads will take five years.

IN MUTINY MOOD.

Officials at the Federal Prison were disturbed Monday by the menacing spirit of discontent among the 1,200 inmates following an open outbreak of defiance Sunday when the name of Julian Hawthorne was cheered and Sunday school workers who had upheld Warden Moyer were hissed.

Guards at the penitentiary have been ordered to keep a stricter watch than ever as a result of the trouble.

PIKE'S PEAK SEEMS SINKING.

DENVER, Oct. 20.—Is Pike's Peak sinking?

The latest Government survey, just announced, says the altitude of that famous peak is only 14,090.77 feet above sea level. Compared with its height as given officially in the report of the survey three years ago, which was 14,171 feet, the peak is 80 feet lower.

Pastor Kills Himself When Transferred

READING, PA., Oct. 20.—Because he was transferred from Lancaster, Pa., to Reading against his wishes, the Rev. S. S. Dougherty, of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church, committed suicide by hanging himself.

SHE SUE TOO OFTEN.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—In the divorce court here Charles Wagner explained that he had sued his wife, Wilhelmina Wagner, for divorce because he wanted to put an end to her suing proclivities. Wagner averred that his wife had sued him on thirteen different occasions since their marriage in 1910. The wife, who is contesting the proceedings, declared that she had sued Wagner only eight times that she could remember, and that there was provocation for each suit.

THAW ACCUSES JEROME.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 20.—Attorneys for Harry K. Thaw to-day took the offensive in their fight against William T. Jerome. They filed with Governor Feltner a brief directly accusing Jerome of breach of faith and attempting to deceive the Governor when he declared that an indictment had been returned against Thaw in New York State.

SERBIA BOWS TO POWERS. PARIS, Oct. 20.—Serbia to-day bowed to the will of the Powers and sent a submissive note promising to withdraw her troops from Albania at once.

The Thrilling Story of a Modern Monte Cristo

SYNOPSIS.

Philip Anson is a boy of 15, of fine education and good breeding, but an orphan and miserably poor.

The story opens with the death of his mother. Rich relatives have deserted the family in their hour of need, and when his mother's death comes Philip is in despair. He looks over his mother's letters and finds that he is related to Sir Siric thunderstorm brews over London. At the height of the storm a flash of lightning scares a team of a West End coach standing in front of a mansion. Philip, who has become a newsboy, rescues a girl from the carriage just before it turns over. A man with the girl trips over Philip in his excitement. He lifts the girl and calls a policeman. The girl pleads for Philip, and he is allowed to go after learning that the man was Lord Vansone. Philip then determines to commit suicide. He borrows a piece of rope from O'Brien, a ship chandler, and goes to his miserable dwelling in Johnson's Meads.

Just as he is about to hang himself a meteor flashes by the window and crashes into the flagstones in the yard. The boy takes by the sign in heaven not to kill himself. He then goes to the yard to look at the meteor. He discovers he is fabulously rich, but faces the problem of selling his meteoric diamond. London's best diamond expert becomes excited over the meteoric find and causes Philip's arrest.

This Week's Installment.

The Transition.

IT was 4 o'clock in the afternoon of a fine, but chilly March day when Philip regained Holborn with 50 pounds, making a lump in his pocket slip all the sovereigns but one into the air and Isaacstein's letter safely lodged in his coat. The more weight of the gold suggested the more Philip's heart was torn. His clothes were so worn that the frail calico might give way and every golden coin rattle forth to the street. So with one of Mr. Abington's shillings he made his first purchase, a capacious tobacco pouch, with a flap mouth, for which he paid ninepence. Then he adjourned to an aerated bread shop and ordered some refreshments. While the waitress was bringing his cup of tea and piece of cake he contrived to tobacco pouch.

He did this with his hand in the pocket itself, and once there was a pleasant clink as the coins fell into their novel receptacle.

A man sitting across the sound and looked up suspiciously. Philip, whose senses were very much on the alert today, realized that his action was somewhat careless. Without even glancing at his neighbor he took out his remaining couple of shillings and the three pennies, and affected to count them with a certain degree of astonishment, as if some were missing. The ruse was satisfactory. The man gave him no further heed, and soon quitted the restaurant.

Philip tendered the odd sovereign in payment of his bill. Yet the girl who had seemed to be surprised that such a ragged youth should own so large a sum.

"All silver, please," said Philip, when she began to count his change. He would take no more risks if he could avoid them. Not a single policeman in London would be likely to rest him at that moment were his store of gold revealed by any chance. Yet Philip was rich, honestly, and there were men driving away from the city at that hour whose banking accounts were plied with stolen money. For their carriages the policemen would stop traffic. In neither instance could the guardians of the peace be held blame-worthy; such is the importance of mere appearances.

The boy during his short and terribly sharp tussle with London life, had already grasped this essential fact, and with great skill and method he set about the task of altering his own shabby exterior.

In a side street leading out of Gray's Inn road he found a second-hand clothes shop. Here he purchased a worn, but decent, blue serge suit for 8 shillings 6 pence, a pair of shoes for 5 shillings, a cap for 5 pence, a wooden shirt for 2 shillings and a linen collar for 3 pence. He haggle sufficiently over the bargain to suit the needs of a scanty purse.

"I've cut 'em damn low enough," said the shopkeeper mournfully. "Things just won't wear in the old clo' line, let me tell you. Not but what you do want a new rig-ah?"

"Yes," said Philip. "I've got a job, and can't keep unless I look decent."

Some Evasion.

For the life of him he could not but use the cockney accent, and, though he used the simplest phraseology, the man glanced at him sharply. "Where are you working?" he asked. "At Isaacstein's in Hatton Garden."

The words had not left his lips ere he regretted them.

"What is it?"

"A Jew," and Philip laughed. This slip atoned for the error of the admission.

"Bill me, you won't get a lot of it, 'im."

"No. It cost me some trouble to get an advance, I can assure you."

Philip rattled all his silver and coppers onto the counter. He counted out sixteen shillings.

"Not much left, is there?" he said. "Well, look 'ere," said the man. "Gin me fifteen bob. You're a sharp lad. You'll make yer w'y all right. Next time you want some duds come to me. I'll treat you fair."

"Thank you very much," said Philip. "I'm considerably surprised you'll not forget your own name."

"You can change it 'im little back room, if you like. That let you've got on 'an' 'im work 'imkin' come."

"I am obliged for your kindness, but I must be off now. It is late, and I have a long way to go."

"Where to?"

"No, cityward."

The clothes and boots were made up in a parcel by this time. Philip hurried away, glad to escape further questioning.

"Queer sort of kid," mused the shopkeeper. "My, but 'a must be his 'ead up afore 'e look at 'is w'y & Jew."

What did 'e 's 'is nine was? Isaacstein? I've seen that somewhere or other. Now where was 'er?"

He knew two hours later, for he, too, read the evening paper.

Philip straightened up at the Bank. At the Royal Exchange he would catch a green bus for the Mile End road.

It was almost dark when he reached the Bank. Thus far the omnibuses go—ing east were not crowded. Now the situation had changed.

The human eddy in that throbbing center of life was sending off its swirls to all points of the compass, and the eastbound vehicles were boarded by an eager crowd almost before the passengers arriving at the terminus could descend.

A poor woman, greatly hampered by a baby, was struggling with others to obtain a seat in the Mile End road bus.

Philip, coming late on the scene, saw her sweep ruthlessly aside by a number of men and boys. The conductor jerked the bell-rope several times. There was no more room.

The white-faced and disappointed, looked around with a worn, become expression. Philip, who would have gladly paid for a seat to have led to her destination, dared do nothing of the sort. But he said:

"Oh, I wish you would," she said, with a smile. "I am an old street, have walked here from Shepherd's Bush."

"That's a long way to carry a baby."

"What could I do? People won't take care of children without paying me. I heard I could get work in a laundry there, so I went to look after it. There's nothing to be had down our way, is there?"

"Things turn up suddenly," said Philip.

"Not for the poor, my lad. I fear you know that without my telling you. But you are young and will soon be a man."

The wise old tone went to his heart. "Didn't you succeed at the laundry?" he inquired.

"Yes, I ought to be thankful. I can earn nine shillings a week there. I start on Monday."

"He is dead. Poor fellow, he was buried last Christmas, and was buried in January. I can't tell you the kindness of neighbors. Baby and I would have starved if I had not found him."

"Well, look out now," he said cheerily. "Here's our bus."

As the vehicle drew up he caught the brass rail with his hand, and was under his right arm.

"Quick," he said to the woman, as soon as the people inside had descended. "Jump in."

She assured him to do so, but was rudely thrust aside by a young man who had passed on the roof to light a cigarette.

Philip sprang onto the step, but the young gentleman in the stomach with his parcel, causing the other to sit down heavily on the stairs. The boy caught the woman's arm with his disengaged hand and pulled her up. He did it in after he.

"You young —" roared the discomfited smoker.

"Come out of it," said the conductor. "Why didn't ye git dahn before?"

"I've wanted a lift."

Others hushed the protesting one out of the way.

"Confound the East End, I say," he growled. "He's crossed to the Mansion House."

"What the deuce Lady Louisa Morland wants to do, I can't tell you. To that watched news for I can't imagine. Anyway, I can tell her this: that the place is empty, and will be pulled down next week."

And thus it was that Philip, collared with Messrs. Siffert & Smith's clerk, detailed by the anxious Lady Morland to discover his whereabouts. They met and bumped into each other, and the whirlpool of London just as two ships might crash together by night in mid-Atlantic, and draw apart with ruffled feelings, or scraped apart, which is the same thing, without either having a knowledge of each other's identity.

Within the omnibus the woman was volubly grateful to Philip for his heart, and timely essayed questions as to Philip's relatives, hoping that she might make their acquaintance.

"I'll be bound now," she said, "that you have a good mother."

"My mother's a worn-out old man," he replied sadly, again driven out of himself by the mournful recollections of his mother's death.

"I don't suppose you'll find it very hard."

Some people in the bus ceased talking. The voice of the unkempt boy, whose deflection and choice of words were so much to his advantage, was now brought about an embarrassing position.

"Poor thing! And is your father dead, too?"

"Yes. He died long ago."

"Where do you live now?"

"Oh," he said, "I have been staying in North London, but will leave there soon, and I have not settled anywhere definitely at present. Where is the bill call some day, if I may, and learn how you are getting on."

"Will be so pleased. It is a little place in James street—the only one there. Ask for Mrs. Wrigley."

"It is lucky you understand laundry work, or things might go hard with you."

She laughed pitifully.

"I don't! They asked me if I was a washer, or an ironer. I thought washing required least experience, so I said I was a washer. I am quick to learn, and will watch the other women."

"You find me out I may be discharged."

"Oh, cheer up."

"I don't suppose you'll find it very hard."

"Her voice sank almost to a whisper. "It is not the work I dread, but the surroundings. I was a school-teacher before my husband was an electrical engineer. We put all our savings into a little business, and then—"

"Not quite the end. I am only a boy, but I've hunger and down enough."

"I know that the beginning of next week may be a very different affair to the end of it."

"They were passing the London Hospital and he thought it prudent to leave at some distance from Johnson's Meads."

"Well, God bless you, anyhow," she said earnestly.

"Es got 'er scrawled on tight, fastened the rope with which he had intended to hang himself and loosened

"Better than that, he has a good heart," said Mrs. Wrigley. Most fortunately, Wrigley to have encountered Philip in that hour, which she deemed the blackest of her life.

There was a stranger, a said teller among the busy thoroughfare with heightened expectancy. It is true, but it was the least fear that his meteor had been discovered. His mother would be good care of it. Why, the mere chance remark of the woman he had befriended showed that her gentle spirit watched over him wherever he went.

There was a stranger, a said teller among the millions, who went out of her way to praise the goodness of one she had never seen. He laughed joyously. Mrs. Wrigley should have further cause to love his mother's memory.

He passed O'Brien's shop. He saw the old man seated behind the counter. Should he go in? No. Better keep wholly to himself at present. Yet he hesitated. Which was the more judicious course to remain hidden, unknown, or to drop quietly into the groove where he was recognized?

With rare persistency for one so young, he reflected that only five days had elapsed since the boy had taken to the streets. The period bulged largely in Philip's life; in O'Brien's it would be as naught.

He entered the shop.

"Glorious to be," said Phil. But it's mischief would be amiss. I am an old friend."

"Where have ye bin to, at all, at all? Have ye heard what the murderin' War Office is after doin' to me? I haven't had a soul to spake to about 'em."

"I'll be with ye in a minute, as to me, I haven't had a soul to spake to about 'em."

"This was not strictly accurate. O'Brien's perceptive whole, a small personhood with the story of his withheld pension and the preposterous claim made on his behalf, had been a constant in his mind. But his plaint effectively stopped all further reference to the War Office. As to the "bit of shite," that was "navvies' almon nor'ing," he hadn't a word to say.

"Phil," he said, "I've a small sweeping brush and a strong sack with me, and I've a comment from the pension board, which I've got to take to the War Office."

its stiff strands. Soon he had an abundance of strong cord, and four bulky packages were added to the first small bundle.

They were heavy, too, weighing several pounds each. In placing them side by side close to the wall beneath the front window, he suddenly realized an unforeseen difficulty.

If these shreds of matter—the mere husk, as it were, of the meteor—were so ponderous, what would be the weight of the meteor itself? How could he hope to lift it from the hole in which it lay, how convey it from Johnson's Meads to a new and safer habitation? He might as well endeavor to move an unwilling elephant.

The thought chilled him. For the first time since his parting interview with Mr. Abington, Philip experienced a dread of failure. With something of panic in his blood, he snatched the package and ran hastily into the yard. He knelt and held the light low in the excavation. Then he cried aloud:

"What! Am I so ready to lose faith in Mother-in-law?"

For the huge metallic mass—so big that it would not enter the bore of the largest cannon—had been split asunder in all directions in Philip's fingers, as if he had used a hammer. The air and steam had been their work. It was even possible that he would not need the spade, but would be able to dig out each separate chunk with his hand.

Instantly he put the thought into execution, and succeeded in severing pieces to the yard level. He noted that they were gorged with the dull white pebbles, some being the size of pigeon eggs. He could not help comparing them in his mind's eye with the collection now lodged in Isaacstein's safe. These were worth fifty thousand pounds, these must be of fabulous value.

Any other person in the wide world might have been excused if he pinched his nose and winked at one single instant, that means would be given him to those cases and undisturbed control of his treasure.

But there remained the problem of the actual body of the meteor in the stout sack he obtained from O'Brien, and then he turned to the trunk which he would purchase next morning. Any ordinary trunk would have been useless, for the meteoric phenomenon would have unquestionably evoked some comment, had he sized, and it would need two strong men to lift it.

That portion of his plan needed to be entirely remodeled, and he was now more than ever thankful that the 50 pounds, save one expended, rested in his pocket. With money all things, or nearly all things, were possible.

Owing to the cramped space in which the meteor lay it was no small task to bring it to the surface in sections. But he persevered by strenuous effort, he accumulated an astonishing pile of iron ore studded with diamonds, looking like unlike almonds in a broken cake, and the guttering candle held low down, failed to reveal anything in the hole. There was a good deal of debris at the bottom, and the depth was now four feet. To reach to its full extent he was compelled to jam his head and shoulders into the excavation and feel blindly with one hand, so he rightly concluded that a final examination might be left until daylight.

By this time he was hot and tired, and he felt that a final examination might be left until daylight.

these being less noisy than tin—would hold the remainder of the meteor.

As the next morning would find him occupied enough, he decided to do as much as possible that night. Three things he called forth and returned with as cool-sized valves. He paid prices varying from two pounds five shillings to three pounds fifteen shillings, and always brought second-hand goods.

He had looked and strapped the fourth of his goodly array of traveling bags when he fancied he heard a footstep in the news. Such an occurrence would have troubled him not a jot a month ago. To-night it was extremely disconcerting.

Without hesitating the weight of the packed portmanteau, especially the larger one, he lifted each bodily in his arms and ran with it into the tiny scullery.

On the front window there was no blind, only a small, much-worn curtain covering the lower panes, and he did not want any stray looper to gaze in at him and discover a large quantity of luggage in such a disreputable hovel.

When the fourth bag was disposed of in the dark recesses of the scullery, he paused for an instant to listen. There was not a sound. Through the window he could dimly discern the roof of the deserted stables opposite.

He bent again over the portmanteau, and was packing the fifth portmanteau, and was placing in it the last parcel of ore and diamonds when some of the contents fell through one end where the druggist wrapping had been hastily folded.

Shaking the package on the floor, a grocer beats down the contents of a sugar bag, he picked up the fallen specimen and put them in one by one. A large lump of ore had fallen apart, and it dropped. Inside there was a huge kernel, a rough diamond quite as large as a hen's egg.

Philip smiled as he recalled his boast to Isaacstein. He examined the stone critically, and realized that if it were flawless it might be one of the marvels of creation. Without experiencing any positive motive he slipped this unique specimen into his pocket, and bent over with the reconstruction of the damaged parcel.

At last he finished. The portmanteau was lying open on the floor, when the thought occurred to him that he might have avoided the flurry and trouble of carrying these heavy articles into the scullery if he had carried a couple of yards of his druggist across the window.

It was not too late even now to rectify this defect. He glanced at the clock, and saw that it was half past twelve. He did not know how much material he should cut off, and saw a face—an evil, brutal, suspicious face—peering at him over the top of the curtain.

A Decisive Battle.

It would be idle to deny that Philip was startled by the sight. No braver or more resolute boy breathed; but the silence, the mystery, the gloomy aloofness of Johnson's Mews—lent a sinister aspect to an apparition formidable enough under any circumstances, but absolutely threatening and full of danger to one situated as he at that moment.

He never remembered seeing the man before. Not that this repellent physiognomy was of a type soon to be forgotten. A bullet head with prominent, bloodshot eyes, a strong, cruel mouth, a huge nose badly broken—a certain strength of character in features deformed by drink—these were the tokens which lay legibly on the countenance glaring intently at the boy from without.

The two gazed at each other for an appreciable time. The man's face wandered from Philip's face to his own, and then rested on the open portmanteau at the boy's feet. There was in his expression an air of astonishment—a certain glowing bewilderment—as if some object of such potential value that the finder could hardly believe it to be true. He was looking at the boy, and he was looking at the open portmanteau.

Philip, despite his alarm, felt that the right course was to resent this impertinent prying into his affairs. "Hello, you!" he shouted. "What do you want?"

The man grinned. He seemed about to answer when he suddenly turned his head and looked down the yard toward the entry.

Instantly he swung round and vanished noiselessly. The silence, the mystery, the gloomy aloofness of Johnson's Mews—lent a sinister aspect to an apparition formidable enough under any circumstances, but absolutely threatening and full of danger to one situated as he at that moment.

weapon, and he would not hesitate to use it if forced entry was attempted. He sat quietly in the dark, listening for each sound, and threatening boldly when he heard any one endeavoring to open the door without.

He signed, for he was very tired, but he did not move. He dropped the druggist and scissors and bent again over the portmanteau. The packing operations went on well, and, indeed, when the light was extinguished, it would be better to keep away from the window, through which a sudden thrust with an implement might do him an injury.

He took his discarded clothes and arranged them on top of the last parcels of ore and diamonds. Then he reached out for a small bundle of documents resting on the chair behind him, and intending to place them in the pocket in the flap which already covered one-half of the bag.

At that instant he again heard foot-steps. Of course, a very few seconds had elapsed since he first caught sight of the living specter without. The door opened at such length whirled through his active brain with lightning speed, just as the knowledge came that the footstep proceeded from the entrance to the news.

Philip met their scrutiny without flinching. He leaned against the wall with his hands in his pockets, and then clinched over the pouchful of gold, the other guarding a diamond bigger than the Kokinoor.

"I am sorry I have only one chair, gentlemen," he said apologetically. "That's all right, my lad," said the inspector. "The constable here tells me that you've been looking for a man to capture a notorious burglar. The man was hiding in this news, and it seems you've just found him looking in through your window. What were you doing at the time?"

"Oh, packing my portmanteau," said Philip. "Packing my portmanteau?" "Yes, that's right," said the inspector. "He stopped and nonchalantly threw it open. His clothes and boots, and some of the other contents were exposed to view. The inspector laughed.

"Not many diamonds there, Bradley," said the inspector. "No, sir, I told you Mason was talking rubbish."

"Did he say any more about me being the boy who found the meteor?" asked Philip, with a first-rate attempt at a grin.

Philip was safe. He rapidly helped his friend to put up the shutters, and rushed back to No. 3. Even yet he was not quite prepared for eventualities. He ran upstairs and gathered a few articles of domestic furniture, and he never endeavored to sell even when pinched by hunger.

"A Step Higher."

"This is the boy, sir," said the policeman. "Oh, is that him?" observed the inspector, sticking his thumbs in his belt and gazing at Philip with professional severity.

fused permission to remove anything except his few unsalable household goods. Assuredly he was in an awkward predicament. Of course, there was a chance that the policeman would continue to laugh at the convict's folly. If he did not, there would certainly be complications. Could he avoid them by any means? Where was there a safe hiding place for his diamonds until next day? Would mother inspire him again as she had not failed to do during so many strange events? Would her spirit guide his footsteps across this new quicksand on whose verge he hesitated?

A few doors to the left was O'Brien's shop. The old man crept into sight, staggering under the weight of a shutter. Good gracious! Why had he not thought of this ally sooner? Some precious minutes were wasted already.

"Arrah, Phil, what in the world—"

"Wait just the least bit, Mr. O'Brien. I have some portmanteaux that I want to store for the night. Do let me put them at the back of your shop. My place is not very safe, you know."

"Sure, boy, that's a small thing to ask. Bring 'em, an' welcome."

With the speed of a deer Philip dived into the news. He carried the two lesser bags without extraordinary difficulty, and deposited them behind O'Brien's counter. The third was almost too much for him, as the weight was all in one hand. But he got it there, breathless with exertion.

He had to open the fourth and tear out the stuffing of paper. When filled with the packages taken from the fifth it was beyond his power to lift it. So he dragged it bodily along the news and into the shop.

A passerby offered to help him. "No, thanks," he managed to say, though the effort to speak calmly took away his remaining breath. "I am only taking it to the shop there."

The man glanced at the shop—it was a marine store dealer's—a place where lead and iron and brass found ready sale. He passed on.

"Be the forchun uv war, Phil, where did ye get the illegal leather trunks, an' phwats in them?" inquired the astonished pensioner.

The boy bravely called a smile to his aid. "I have a big story to tell you one of these days, Mr. O'Brien, but I have no time to-night. These things will not be in your way until the morning."

"The devil a bit. If things go on as they are, there'll soon be room enough for them. I don't think, after all these years, that a murderin' thief in the War Office—"

Market Quotations For Week Ending October 21, 1913

REVIEW OF COTTON MARKET

With the exception of Wednesday, when January broke to 12.66 the low point of the recent bear campaign, this has been the most propitious week for the bull element since the season started.

Bulls renewed aggressive tactics Thursday, owing to prediction of frost in the southwest, and from then on they had full control of the market, aided and abetted by a strong market in Liverpool and unfavorable weather over the larger portion of the cotton area.

Again and again the move was upward until at the close Monday futures in New York had advanced some 95 to 105 points, or $4.75 to $5.25 a bale higher than the closing quotations of last Tuesday.

The trade witnessed the most sensational advance of the season Monday, when the market opened strong with prices at a net advance of 22 to 35 points from Saturday's close, based on killing frost in Oklahoma and reports of frost and heavy rains in other sections of the west. The Government's detailed weather map showed frost over the entire cotton belt. Reports of cold, wet weather in Texas reached Liverpool before the American markets opened, and, coming after the sensational rise of Friday, was too much for the nerves of the foreign trade. The English market was strong and opening much better than due and advancing about 17 points on a general buying movement. Following Liverpool's lead, traders on this side bought actively at the opening, but as the season wore on, activity increased, being stimulated by continued reports of heavy rains in the west and the Government predicting heavy frost over the central and eastern sections Monday night. In addition to this the bears had to stand the pressure of a storm warning off the central coast. On the advance October reached 14.90, December 13.40, January 13.71 and March 13.73, which carried the options fully 45 to 55 points from the previous close, within a few points of the season's high mark, when October sold at 14.18, during the recent bull movement. These prices represented a recovery of $2.25 to $2.55 a bale for the day. Naturally there was much selling to realize after a sudden advance of $5 a bale during the past few days. These contracts came mainly from bull leaders who had supported and purchased the market the recent low. However, the market did not lose ground, instead it kept advancing and closed at the highest point.

Sentiment after the close favored a further reaction and bears withdrew support, apparently letting the buying run its course. On the other hand some radical bears think the advance has been overdone; that no serious damage is likely in Oklahoma, asserting that the crop was not as ready made before frost fell. But they evidently overlooked the fact that a top-crop is yet to be made and Texas is still pulling out of an excessive wet season, which damaged the crops considerably west of the Mississippi River. Last week the most conservative estimate available for Texas was only 4,000,000 bales. This frost and heavy rains, with temperatures as low as 30 degrees in many sections of the State, will undoubtedly cut the yield considerably.

Some think the rise has been too rapid, but those inclined to that belief do not hesitate to think of the probable damage the eastern crops will sustain from frost. It is already a well-known fact that the staple is depending upon the central and eastern belt for the greatest bulk of the staple this season, where the crops have been in excellent shape up until a week ago when advice began to flood the market to the effect that the crops have been overestimated. Some estimated Georgia's crop at 2,750,000 bales, provided killing frost held off until after November 1, but such an estimate is entirely too steep, regardless of what time frost prevails. Now that we have had soaking rains, followed by freezing weather and heavy frost in certain sections, it would be only fair to say that estimates surpassing the 1911 yield are not worth considering. It would also be well to note that the world's requirements for the staple will approximately total 15,000,000 bales and more.

In general, the trade thinks that present prices are high enough in the light of the past and prospects for a good size crop. Attention was called to the fact that the January futures are selling at nearly 30 points above the close of the year, when estimates of the crop were not in excess of 14,000,000 bales. Many conservative traders think that this year's yield will exceed the above figure.

The bears call attention of bull forces to the fact that the int-sight figures were the highest last week, with one exception, in the history of the trade. It was only the extraordinarily large exports that kept the visible supply 400,000 bales under that of a year ago. Thus far exports are nearly 300,000 bales larger than the previous year. Should they continue that large during the movement, only a large crop will suffice for the demand.

The question as to the size of the crop is still wide open, with estimates ranging between 13,500,000 to 15,750,000 bales.

The advance in the cotton market is being closely followed in the goods market, in face of the fact that present prices on staple goods are due to the shortage of supplies rather than to high raw material. Some agents state that their mills are still turning out goods from cotton which was bought last July, and the present prices of futures cut little or no ice in setting prices on their goods. So far as new business is concerned, sales from day to day are restricted. Selling agents and commission houses are more interested in securing deliveries than in making sales. The mills still have many goods to deliver, and in the face of this, jobbers are sending forward requests for deliveries ahead of contract dates in old orders.

Around 12.70 for January the demand from mills became better because they thought that level attractive enough to take on supply and the farmer showed no sign of selling their cotton at a profit. As a result, the demand for 13,500,000 bales by a prominent English house, while considered small by many judges of the crop, had its effect, and the demand from foreign mills was not improved. The break to 13.70 for January was due largely to the threatened strike in Manchester. This brought out heavy unloading by longs and some spot houses. The more bold, however, considered it as "bull" because such reports are usually usually at the time cotton is booming, and generally such reports are published for the sole purpose of depressing contracts in order to let mills buy their supplies at low levels. Anyway, the Manchester trouble was a serious matter, for when it was obvious that the trade on this side gave it little or no credence.

Secretary Hester's week-end figures were interpreted bullishly: 651,000 bales were brought to light, of which spinners absorbed 317,000 bales, the increase in the world's visible supply of American cotton being 334,000 bales, as against 330,000 last year and 383,000 in 1911.

Thus far this season spinners have taken 1,621,000 bales, as against 1,520,000 last year and 1,570,000 in 1911. The world's visible supply of American cotton now stands 2,496,000 bales, as contrasted with 2,945,000 in 1912 and 2,605,000 in 1911.

TUESDAY'S REVIEW.

Assumption will be far greater than the production. Many believe that this frost is severe enough to end all further growth and maturity of cotton, and will likely reduce the yield to an extent where 15 cents will probably be the basis of values.

A rumor of the effect that the National Ginners' placed ginnings to October 15 at 5,800,000 bales, which was construed as bearish, brought out further realizing by longs in the late trading. At the close the market was steady, with prices at a net decline of 2 1/2 to 25 points from the closing quotations of Monday.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—Weather conditions and developments overnight were, on the whole, not as severe as anticipated. The map shows fair weather over the entire belt. No precipitation, except just a trace in the Tennessee mountains and in the Tennessee Western States; no frost there, but colder east of Louisiana, with heavy killing frost general in Mississippi, Alabama, the eastern portion of the Atlantic, Tennessee and parts of the Florida.

The first frost here has now passed over the belt and established the following facts: "Reiter general killing frost in Oklahoma; heavy to killing frost in the greater part of Arkansas, generally over Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, western Georgia and the northwestern part of Florida." Liverpool was irregular, high at the start on frost news, but losing nearly all the advance toward the close. Spots, 14 points higher; sales, 8,000 bales. Our market experienced a sharp decline of nearly 20 points on realizing, owing to the fact that killing frost was not as extended as expected, and the Government forecast of fair and warmer weather in the belt, but there was a steady demand at the close, and the undertone continues confidently bullish. A bullish ginners' report is looked for this week.

After the call the list sold down some 10 to 13 points from the initial range. The selling was met with substantial buying, some of which came from the trade. Following this buying a general buying movement developed. Some of those who were early sellers were noticeable on the buying side, resulting in prices recovering most of the decline. October advanced to 14.05, but later sold down to 13.87, December, being in less demand, was unable to pass over the opening quotation of 13.70, and later rallied to 13.52, but was later depressed to 13.52.

Some think the advance of 51 points Monday was forced and overdone, and each time the list advanced there was a fresh outburst of realizing. However, the sudden rise Monday took the breath away from commission houses and the bears and so few had the courage to hook on that general outside business was rather light, considering the wide fluctuations.

The main indicator, better conditions west of the river, also in the eastern belt. But the weather is still unusually seasonably cold, and this will probably have a tendency to check what little bearish feeling there is left in the market for at least a few days.

Telegraphic advices from the belt are unfavorable and the feeling is becoming more friendly to the bull side. During the afternoon trading the buying was scattered. Some of the spot interests, Wall street and commission houses were principal absorbers. However, bull leaders were aggressive bidders for large bulk but they did not purchase very much and seem to be waiting the trial of things. Opinions are very much mixed as to the damage which will result from this cold spell, and the market acted quite nervous. Speculators who were not active sellers said that the damage by frost is always overestimated.

On the other hand the more bold contend that the cold spell insures a crop of under 14,000,000 bales, and the con-

"Yes, I Guess It Killed Him," Said the Lady, and It Did

The train was rushing to Chicago, a solid mass of steel, flying like a steel arrow with its living cargo from one great center to another. It "touched a man" standing by the track.

A thin trail of smoke drifted behind, losing itself in the many colored leaves of the trees along the river bank. It was a beautiful day, the dull grayish-blue clouds reflected in the water, as the late afternoon sun finished a day's work.

And it was a beautiful world, to the man whose life went out as suddenly as the light of a candle, as the big train came around the curve.

Such a little incident in life and in railroading does not cause much delay. The emergency brakes were set, but there was no shock—no passengers, except a few on the rear observation platform, knew that anything had happened.

One young man, on the right-hand side of that platform, as you look toward the engine, turned white, for he had seen it as it lay in the trench between the track and the hill, when the train flew past.

He and half a dozen others, the youngest men on the train, ran back with the railroad man, who was sent formally to do what is customary.

In about three minutes, as fast as they could run, and out of breath, they and the railroad man returned, and with them a brakeman, who had carried a red flag, to prevent a rear-end collision.

They came running, hurrying, climbing to the observation platform, and the train was off—she soon made up the three or four minutes lost. She had done exactly the same thing two weeks before.

The pale young man who had seen it soon recovered his nerve, and no one was excited except the very small boy who had rapidly exhausted all of the comic newspapers in the observation car, and was much in need of fresh excitement. He could find no one to pay attention to him, except a lady who evidently does a good deal of traveling on this train.

She said to the little boy: "Yes, I guess he is dead all right. I never knew this train to touch a man and not kill him. You see, it goes pretty fast."

Some one had said that the train had not run over the man, but had "just touched him," and the little boy thought that perhaps he was not dead.

But he was dead, as dead as any little ant that you have crushed, walking along the garden path. It was not the railroad's fault, not the engineer's fault; he had blown his whistle; and the section hand—the dead man was a "section hand"—knew the whistle meant death if he stayed too near the track. Custom makes us scorn danger.

This "hand" had not thought it worth while to cross all the tracks and clear the flying "Century." He put his back against the steep bank, leaving room, as he thought. But air suction, caused by the flying train, or his own recklessness, brought him too near. Employees are supposed to pretend ignorance of all accidents. But one employee told the short story to this writer, whom he knew: "The steam cylinder head just touched him and it took his head clean off, as though it had been cut with a knife."

Here, if you choose, you have a chance to moralize on life, its significance, and on man, the little leaf growing on a tree we call the human race, falling and vanishing like any other leaf.

It is not the man, but the race that counts.

It is the race that built the great train, the intelligence of the race that has just united the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean.

It is the race, the millions working together, that gradually make the life of the man worth while, the importance of the individual greater.

The race is the real SUPERMAN, the real power. And each individual "section hand," forgotten the hour that he dies, or "great man," forgotten when the newspapers stop talking about him, must find his comfort in the fact that he belongs TO THE RACE, shares in its accomplishment, helps in its work, and will probably return to this planet over and over millions of times, as long as the planet lives, move on to work in some other bigger and better planet when this one dies—and so on forever.

P. S.—For the serious mind. Note that the flying train typifies modern industry and civilization. No one on the train was excited—a majority did not know that anything had happened. Promptly on the hour each ate his dinner and all slept well. The train had killed a man. BUT IT WAS NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

It was not the engineer's fault; he had done his duty.

It was not the passengers' fault; they did not run the train.

It was not the railroad's fault; it laid down rules.

It was nobody's FAULT; but the man WAS DEAD.

If any INDIVIDUAL PASSENGER had killed the man that passenger would have refused to leave the body, would have inquired for the wife and children, would have felt remorse, lost appetite, blamed himself, even had the dead man been really to blame.

But as the passengers, the train, the engineer and the railroad ALL COMBINED killed him, NO ONE felt responsible.

So it is in industry and civilization.

Ten men are killed in a day in some mine. No one responsible. Stockholders, managers, engineers all say, "I did not do it"—again, NO ONE TO BLAME.

A miserable woman starves to death in her garret in a big city. Civilization says, "I did not do it." No one to blame, and so it goes.

We shiver with horror when we read of an individual body-owned slave beaten to death.

We shrug our shoulders and say, "I did not do it," when we read of ten thousand wage-owned slaves, miserably paid girls, driven to despair, by poverty.

Since we have evaded personal responsibility we must devise COLLECTIVE RESPONSIBILITY so that when men die in their youth and women starve it shall not be possible for the entire race and its government to say, "I did not do it."

The Value of Good Character---An Incident and a Lesson

The recent commutation of the death sentence of George Oliver, a negro convicted of murder in DeKalb County, is a matter of more than passing importance.

In that commutation Governor Slaton has succeeded in writing a lesson that everybody may profit by considering.

It is a simple, old lesson as old as the hills—but it has not yet been learned by all men!

Oliver, a negro of previous good character, killed, upon the impulse of the moment, another negro. Oliver was not himself at the moment of the crime, but the cold record of the trial made out a case of murder, pure and simple, and the jury found accordingly.

The case was not appealed to the Supreme Court, for there was no apparent error of law therein, but an appeal direct to the Governor for clemency was made.

Presenting the plea were a hundred or so of the white acquaintances—the neighbors—of the negro under sentence of death. The white jury that convicted him asked the Governor's mercy—and every plea was based upon one isolated proposition, PREVIOUS GOOD CHARACTER OF LONG STANDING!

In commuting the death sentence, Governor Slaton said:

"The negro is a charge upon the conscience and thought of the Southern white men. Among them he finds his best friends, and all that is demanded of him is good behavior and a recognition of his position. What a dramatic emphasis is placed upon the value of good character by this appeal for clemency by stern, law-enforcing men, whom neither money nor power could influence!

"They say the defendant was hardworking, law-abiding, peace-loving, obedient, and they pleaded a life of good conduct as against the impulse of a moment that menaces him with the gallows.

"The lesson, if heeded by his color, may produce an infinitely better result than the execution of the stern sentence of the law."

The value of good character!

It should avail a man much in his hour of peril—a negro man not less than a white man.

Capital punishment is abhorrent to many people in any event; it would be doubly abhorrent in a case like that of Oliver!

Governor Slaton has turned an act of executive duty to a commendable purpose!
